Hoover and Smith
Joan of Arc's Day
To Chain the Chain Stores
Mr. Raskob and the Robin

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

SECRETARY MELLON says, referring to the presidency: "Mr. Hoover seems to come closest to the standard that we have set for this high office."

Those few words have caused political talk to boil over. Mr. Mellon controls the Pennsylvania delegation that could make Hoover's nomination practically certain.

Mr. Mellon, one of the men best suited for the presidency, one that would have had enthusiastic support, seems to withdraw his own name from consideration. Millions will regret this.

No man has a following greater than Mr. Mellon's among serious American business men. His Hoover endorsement will kill off much hostility to Hoover among certain Wall Street men. Their standard is money. Mellon has it—ten and a hundred times what the average "rich Mellon critic" has.

They will conclude that Hoover is good enough for them, if good enough for Mellon.

Some, that do not know Mr. Mellon will call his statement the first step toward a seat in the Hoover band wagon. Mr. Mellon needs no man's good will, or assistance.

Close friends of Mr. Mellon that know how earnestly Mellon hoped for Coolidge's acceptance of a second election, will conclude that he has abandoned that hope. President Coolidge would have been his first choice.

Republican victory Mr. Mellon takes for granted and Governor Smith, who does not deceive himself, knows that it will not be easy to beat prosperity, and seven million plurality.

Some that planned to beat Hoover with a combination "at the proper moment" seem to have let that moment slip by. [illegible] as Governor Smith's opponents know.

HOOVER AND SMITH is a reasonably safe answer to the political question of the day.

This is Joan of Arc's Day, and representatives of those most active in burning her alive will make the greatest fuss over her, now that she is a memory.

Flowers will decorate Frémiot's poor statue of Joan in the Rue De Rivoli. And French royalists will take possession of her memory, forgetting how the miserable French king left her to be murdered.

Government investigates chain stores to protect small "independent merchants."

The plan to discourage useful efficiency in favor of the other thing will not go far.

It is alleged that chain stores "take money out of the community." Big automobile makers do that also, and packers, millers, ready made clothing men.

The important community is THE UNITED STATES. Whatever is good for THE UNITED STATES is good for each community. Efficient retailing means a more valuable dollar and greater REAL prosperity.

John J. Raskob, boss of General Motors' finances, returns on the Italian ship Roma as optimistic as a robin after a shower. Showers bring the worms to the surface.

He says there is no danger of automobile overproduction, and there is none, if you make the right car at the right price. Yearly replacement, says Mr. Raskob calls for 5,000,000 new cars, which confirms Henry Ford's estimate.

The country has 24,000,000 cars in use now, and ought to have 40,000,000 to make this a

MORRIS AND GRAY IN MOUND DUEL AT FENS

Big Ed Morris and Sam Gray staged a pitchers' battle in the second game of the Red Sox-Brown series this afternoon at Fenway Park.

The Browns got an early lead in the third when they overcame the Red Sox one-tally advantage by counting twice, but the hustling boys of Bill Carrigan punched out two runs in the fourth and went into the lead again.

Doug Taitt's bat played a big part in both Sox rallies, the young rightfielder getting a double and a single in his first two appearances at bat.

SCORE—RED SOX 3, BROWNS 2.

FIRST INNING

Browns—Morris threw out McNeely. Melillo walked. Manush lined to Todt, who stepped on first, doubling Melillo. NO RUNS.

Red Sox—Gray tossed out Flagstead. Todt fouled to Schang. Myer popped to Blue. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

Browns—Schulte singled. Kress sacrificed, Morris to Todt. Blue walked. Brannon walked, filling the bases. Schang fanned. Gray forced Brannon, Gerber to Regan. NO RUNS.

Red Sox—K. Williams singled. Regan forced K. Williams, Brannon to Kress. Taitt doubled. Gerber sacrificed, Gray to Blue, Regan scoring and Taitt taking third. Heving fanned. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING

Browns—McNeely singled. Melillo secrificed, Todt to Regan. Manush popped to Myer. Schulte tripled, scoring McNeely. Kress singled, scoring Schulte. Kress died stealing, Heving to Gerber. TWO RUNS.

Red Sox—Brannon threw out Morris. Melillo threw out Flagstead. Todt was out, Blue to Gray. NO RUNS.

MOVE AGAINST E. BOSTON TUNNEL KILLED IN HOUSE

The House went on record today in favor of a vehicular toll tunnel to East Boston when it killed, 93 to 28, an adverse resolve proposing that an investigation of the problem be substituted for the bill. The bill will now be voted on for engrossment.

HESSEL FOUND GUILTY IN EASTERN S. S. LOOT

A Suffolk County jury today returned a verdict of guilty in five counts against Max Hessel on an indictment charging him with receiving stolen goods from the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., with larceny from George W. Gordon, his brother-in-law, and with attempting to extort money from Gordon.

Hessel, who was acquitted of charges of conspiracy against both Gordon and the steamship company, will be sentenced next Thursday afternoon.

Meyer Freidman, who was on trial with Hessel, pleaded guilty to similar charges last week and will be sentenced later.

The indictment of the two men followed the arrest of Gordon, former auditor for the steamship company, who as the chief witness admitted he had stolen about $600,000 from his employers.

A number of other persons were arrested in connection with the lar-

AIRPLANE STOCKS GO SKYROCKETING AGAIN

New York, May 14 (AP)—Speculation for the advance was resumed on a broad scale in today's market. Airplane stocks were again in the forefront. Curtiss soared 16 points to a new peak at 157⅞ and Wright was marked up 11 points to a new top at 201½. Early gains in the industrials ranged from 1 to 5 points, although a few of the volatile securities werem arked up 4 to 16 points. Call money was plentiful at 5½ per cent.

FULLER AIDS 'GRAFT' COMPLAINANT; SECOND HOTEL CASE REVEALED

While Governor Fuller today was intervening personally to assist a complainant against the police, county authorities, at work on the general investigation of alleged graft in the city of Boston, were receiving reports from investigators of another hotel "shakedown" case.

Governor Fuller secured prompt action for a North End business man, who, as a result of recent developments, decided to take his troubles to Gen. Alfred F. Foote, head of the State police, who sent him up to the Governor.

MISS COLLETT BEAT BRITISH TITLE HOLDER

Hunstanton, Eng., May 14 (AP)—Miss Glenna Collett, the former American champion, scored her second victory of the day in the British women's golf championship by overwhelming Miss Shirley Lamplough, 18-year-old English girl, 7 up and 6 to play, after having eliminated the defending titleholder, Mlle. Thion de la Chaume.

Huntsanton, Eng., May 14 (AP)—Glenna Collett, long-hitting American girl golfer, today set out on her quest for the British women's championship at the expense of the defending champion, Mlle. Simon Thion de la Chaume.

Miss Collett defeated Mlle. Thion 3 up and 1 to play in a brilliantly fought match, opening the championship play.

READING AND PARKER IN BITTER CLASHES

Marked by several bitter outbursts, the cross-examination of Atty.-Gen. Arthur K. Reading resumed today before the legislative committee which for six weeks has been investigating his conduct in office. When his testimony has been concluded his defense will be closed.

The first clash was not long in arriving. Herbert Parker put one of his lengthy, involved question and Reading asked: "Is it necessary, Mr. Parker to make a speech?"

Unruffled, Parker replied: "You will answer the questions as I put them, sir, unless the committee rules otherwise."

Parker delved into the secrecy with which the attorney-general surrounded his Decimo association and Rading said: "The same you did, Mr. Parker."

"My administration doesn't concern us, good or bad," said the former attorney-general. "You won't find anything there that will help you."

Parker asked about the $25,000 check made out to Barrett but intended for Reading.

"Didn't you realize the check made payable to Barrett was a manifest misrepresentation of the facts?"

"I didn't think so, not in view of the fact I intended to give a receipt."

Before Reading was recalled, Ralph C. Wilson of Detroit, national chairman of the Decimo Trust of Fire Sweeps Corinthian Yacht Club

Marblehead, May 14—The clubhouse of the exclusive Corinthian Yacht Club, located in the most congested section of Marblehead Neck, was damaged to the extent of $15,000 by fire of undetermined origin today.

The blaze had attained considerable headway when the firemen arrived, the flames having broken through the roof of the three-story structure and attacked the cupola.

Yacht club employes were at dinner when Frank Wiggins and George Tibbo, at work on a nearby cottage, heard a crackling and discovered the flames. They gave the alarm, and the fire department made a quick run to the Neck where they were joined by apparatus from Swampscott.

The fire fighters were handicapped when a gate in a hydrant broke, cutting down the water supply. Employes of the yacht club attempted to enter the building to save their effects, but were driven back by smoke.

They came very close to it, and departed laughingly in a touring car with a Missouri license, in which there was a man and two children. Then Kauffman discovered he was minus $100.

Police School Talks Big Aid to Safety

By Frank A Goodwin

Highway Safety Editor Boston Evening American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The Boston police department has assigned an officer to devote his full time lecturing to the children in the schools of Boston about the hazard of streets and highways.

The officer performing this very important work is Patrolman Wiswell W. Randolph of the Field's Corner division. Randolph is just the man for the job. The children love him, and have confidence in him.

As an evidence of Randolph's popularity, he was nearly "mobbed" with affection when he returned to his old route in Neponset recently.

The children call him "Pop." Randolph rounded out 33 years of service on the Boston police force on May 8. He has been preaching safety among the school children of the city 17 months and with wonderful success.

Patrolman Randolph was one of the first to drive home to the children the thought that policemen were their friends and not their enemies. But let Randolph speak for himself:

"I was interested in what Assistant Superintendent of Schools Rafter said about the refreshing spectacle of children running toward police

EX-MAYOR, 3 DOCTORS AMONG VICTIMS AS MOTORBOAT SINKS

Rockwood, Me., May 14.—Plunged into Moosehead Lake when their motorboat sank, nine prominent Brockton, Mass., men and a Greenville guide were drowned, it was learned today.

Although the drownings occurred yesterday, it did not become known until Police Capt. James E. Lays of Brockton, only survivor of the party, staggered out of the woods into West Outlet Camps.

The men drowned were:

High Sheriff Earl P. Blake of Plymouth County.
Ex-Mayor Harry C. Howard of Brockton.
Fire Chief William F. Daley of Brockton.
Dr. A. F. Peterson, former Brockton city physician.
Knute S. Salander, Brockton market proprietor.
G. Fred Dahlberg, Brockton highway commissioner.
Dr. Frank Moberg of Brockton.
Dr. David Bridgwood of Brockton.
John Sandberg, president of the Brockton Tool Company.
Sam Buddin of Greenville, guide and operator of the boat.

BREMEN RELIEF PLANES FLYING TO PICTOU, N. S.

Halifax, N. S., May 14 (AP)—Two United States army planes en route to Labrador to assist the transatlantic monoplane Bremen in the resumption of her flight to New York came down at Maitland, Hands County, shortly after 11 a. m. today, 50 miles short of Pictou, their announced destination. Early this afternoon one of the planes resumed the hop to Pictow. The second plane was expected to follow.

St. John, N. B., May 14 (AP)—Two United States army amphibian planes en route to the Labrador mainland to remove the monoplane Bremen from its prison of ice and snow hopped off at 9 a. m., eastern daylight saving time today for Pictou, N. S.

At Pictou the planes will refuel and will continue to Long Point, Labrador, where Maj.-Gen. James E. Fechet has been informed the Bremen has been removed.

BROCKTON CAMPERS DROWN AS BOAT SINKS IN MAINE LAKE

TROOPS GUARD AMERICANS IN CHINA'S WAR

Shanghai, May 14 (AP)—Foreign forces prepared to guard their nationals today as the Southern (Nationalist) troops advanced on Tientsin, 60 miles southeast of Peking.

As the Southern troops moved north the Nationalist council formally called President Coolidge's attention to the recent clash between Southern and Japanese forces in Tsinan and asked the attitude of the United States government "toward this grave situation created by Japan."

Four thousand of the foreign troops in Tientsin are Americans, equipped with 23 airplanes, five tanks and five field guns. One thousand are British, 3000 are French and 600 are Japanese. Most of the Japanese troops has been withdrawn for duty in Tsinan and other Shantung province points.

The Nationalist protest, growing out of the clashes which followed their occupation of Tsinan, made no specific request to President Coolidge for intervention. It read:

"Japanese troops have invaded Shantung, actually waging war against China. The Chinese people remember that the Shantung question was settled through the offices of friendly powers especially the United States. (A reference to the Washington conference of 1921-22 and the mediation of the Earl of Balfour and Charles Evans Hughes by which China regained Shantung from the Japanese.)

"We desire to know the attitude of the United States government and people toward this grave situation created by Japan."

Brockton Men Perish as Boat Sinks in Lake

According to the story by the exhausted police captain, Lays, who spent the night in a woods camp, the party was bound for Tomhegan Camps when the boat sprang a leak.

Quickly it filled, the engine stopped, and the craft dove beneath the surface.

So exhausted and unnerved was Lays today that he could give but meagre details of what happened after the sinking. The water was so icy cold, he said, that he was numbed and did not recall how he reached shore.

When Lays dragged himself out on the land he was unable to stand, he said, and when finally some strength came back, there was no one in sight.

NO TRACE OF OTHERS.

The captain, with death by exposure and starvation staring him in the face, stumbled up to the camp of E. H. Malone of New York, forced an entrance and spent the night there.

In the morning he started to wander again in hope of finding his way out of the woods, and after walking a mile came to the West Outlet camps, where he was fed and doctored and then rushed to Greenville by motorboat.

A search party headed by Deputy Sheriff Adelbert G. Rogers of Greenville began a hunt for other possible survivors, but none were located.

During the search the top of the sunken motorboat, several cushions and life preservers and some overcoats carried by the party were found washed ashore on Sandbar Island. Sheriff Rogers declared he believed all of the men perished in the cold water.

The fatal fishing trip was the climax to several such journeys that have been made by the same group annually.

It had been planned to make this year's trip earlier in the season, but it had been postponed, week by week, because the ice had not moved out.

On Saturday word was received by the men that the lake was free and they made hurried preparations to leave.

One man who had intended to be in the party found that pressure of business would not allow his absence from the city. He is Charles Parris, probation officer of the Brockton Court.

At 4 a. m., yesterday, the party started for Moosehead and were met at Greenville by Sam Buddin and the motorboat. A few miles up the lake the tragedy occurred.

DRAG LAKE FOR BODIES.

It was believed at first that Fire Chief Daley, and not Capt. Lays, was the man who survived the sinking.

This error came, Sheriff Rogers explained, through confusion of the two Brockton departments and the survivor's connection when he was not able to give a clear story of the tragedy.

In faint revival of hope that some other survivors might have managed to reach camps, Sheriff Rogers gathered a larger search party for a second hunt and every camp within miles was visited, with no result. The party were puzzled because nobody had come to the surface despite the fact that today Moosehead was rough.

Boats were sent out later to drag for bodies near Sandbar Island, as near as possible to the tragedy spot, insofar as Capt. Lays could recall it.

Dr. Bridgwood, one of the victims, was a prominent eye and ear specialist in Brockton. Sandberg was a member of the firm of C. F. Dahlberg & Sons, had been interested in Brockton politics for years and at one time was a Brockton city highway commissioner.

Ex-Mayor Howard was in office from 1911 to 1924 and in private life was a contractor and builder. In 1912 he achieved a deal of public notice by going on a "meat strike" in protest on behalf of consumers in his city against the high prices of meat.

Howard was then the youngest mayor in Massachusetts.

High Sheriff Blake had held that post since 1919. Before that, beginning in 1901, he had served as deputy sheriff under the late Sheriff Henry S. Porter of Plymouth, whom he succeeded.

He was an organizer of the Massachusetts State Guard and held a majority in the 14th regiment. While Calvin Coolidge was Governor of Massachusetts, Maj. Blake was attached to the Governor's staff. He was 55 years old.

Sheriff Blake Well Known as Jail Official in N. E.

Plymouth, May 14 (AP)—Sheriff Earl P. Blake of Plymouth County, reported drowned in Moosehead Lake, was one of the best known penal institutions officers in New England. Long in charge of the Plymouth County Jail here, he had the custody of inmates who had figured in many important trials.

Among these were Charles Ponzi, who served in this jail a term of imprisonment imposed in the federal court for his get-rich-quick scheme, and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who prior to his arrest for murder with Nicola Sacco, was held in Plymouth County on a charge of attempted assault for which he was later sent to the State Prison.

As many persons convicted in the federal court have been sentenced to the Plymouth Jail, Sheriff Blake had come in close contact with federal as well as State authorities. While Ponzi was an inmate the sheriff was called upon to defend the freedom allowed the prisoner particularly in the matter of sending lengthy letters from the jail.

NEW GRAFT RING 'SHAKEDOWN' IS REVEALED

He assigned State Inspector Joseph L. Ferrari to aid the man, who complained that police of division 1, Hanover street, failed to serve a warrant procured for the arrest of a man for alleged larceny of $600.

The complainant said he had given the other man the $600 to bring his family from Italy. Nothing resulted and he got the warrant, but, he declared, the police failed to serve it, although the man named was known to be in the vicinity of the station.

When Inspector Ferrari informed Capt. McConnell of station 1 of the situation the policeman whose duty it was to serve the warrant was called into his superior's presence and ordered to make the arrest. The captain did not know that the man named in the warrant was in the vicinity.

The new hotel "shakedown" case parallels in some respects that of the South End hotel man whose story is now in the hands of the Suffolk County grand jury which reconvenes tomorrow.

In this instance, however, the proprietor, instead of being "squeezed" until he refused to pay graft any longer, was double-crossed and forced out of business altogether.

And while he was forced to the wall and is now barely making a living in other pursuits, his former lucrative business flourished in the hands of the ring upon which the spotlight of investigation is being thrown, according to the authorities.

The man in question, whose name is being withheld pending further rounding up of facts, not only owned the hotel but held the biggest individual interest in a luxurious "rum club," a speakeasy conducted along lines of a gentleman's club.

After many months of operation without interference, this club closed its doors last Saturday night after the ring had seen a new situation confronting them, a situation disclosed by three federal raids within a period of ten days.

Besides his hotel and club activities of protection and graft was also a steamship line official. It was in this connection that he came in conflict finally with the federal authorities.

His offense against the ring controlling the largest part of the Hub's illicit alcohol supply was in pleading guilty in federal court, it is said.

Such action threatened to impede seriously the business of the club and hotel, in which the liquor-dispensing ring was greatly interested, and as a result he was "called on the carpet" and threatened.

"Hand over control to a man designated by us and we will see that you get your just share of the profits of the venture," was the proposition put up to him.

If he did not consent, he was told, the "protection" he had enjoyed for years would be cut off.

He took them at their word and consented but, according to the investigators, from that day to this he has received not a dollar out of the illicit trade which he built up for the ring to take away from him.

The Grand Jury hearing evidence in the graft probe did not meet today on account of an outing planned some time ago. They went to Concord for the day, while Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle, who is presenting the case, worked on evidence which will be given them tomorrow.

Auto Petting Assured Privacy in New Seat

New York, May 14—The wonders of this modern age never cease. Sweethearts are soon to have absolute privacy in an automobile and "back seat drivers" are to be silenced, all by a mere mechanical device.

Peter Jones, an English steel magnate, who arrived today aboard the Samaria, brought the contrivance with him—a reversible back seat and a door through the rear of the automobile.

"By means of this seat," explained Jones, "the rear seat passengers in the auto can look out the back just like on a Pullman observation car. Lovers will not be interfered with by the presence of the driver and the driver will not be interfered with by the 'back seat chauffeur.'"

MILTON DOG IS SHOT AFTER BITING BOY

A police dog was shot today in Milton after the animal bit and tore five-year-old Carl Weiss of Winthrop rd., who was at play near his home. Persons passing in automobiles chased the dog away and he was later found and killed by Motorcycle Officer Dalton. The boy was treated by a doctor and taken home. The head of the dog was sent to Harvard Medical School for examination for rabies.

cenies. They included Gordon's wife and her two sisters.

It was brought out that Freidman collected $500 from the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., for investigating Gordon to determine whether or not he was bootlegging. The government claimed that Hessel and Freidman attempted to extort money from Gordon to protect him from the results of this investigation.

Gordon testified that he met the two men in the Hotel Westminster and agreed to pay them $5000 for protection. He said he got $1000 for a down payment by changing a waybill at the company's office. This was the method he employed, according to testimony, in stealing $300,000 prior to his marriage in 1926, and a like amount afterward.

SLEUTHS SEEK WILL AND CASH OF SLAIN MRS. FARRELL

HUSBAND HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Marshfield, May 14—Detectives trying to solve mysterious angles in the slaying of Mrs. Mary A. McMahon Farrell today hunted a will the young wife is said to have made shortly before her marriage.

Her husband, Thomas V. "Duke" Farrell, former Dorchester taxicab proprietor, is held without bail at Plymouth on a charge of murdering his wife.

Dectives said the will they sought would prove an important link in their investigations. They said they had been informed such a will was made by the young woman prior to her wedding to Farrell two years ago.

The wife's financial matters also entered into the inquiry, the detectives stated.

Some financial books and documents that the detectives found were locked up after study by the police, who refused to reveal what they had learned. That the young wife had a large sum of money when she left the home of Mrs. Arthur Melchin, Bowen st., South Boston, was told the detectives. This money was not on her body when it was discovered in her cottage in the Fieldston section of this town.

Detectives did admit that Mrs. Farrell had not made certain payments on a mortgage on her Fieldston cottage property. They added that the bank holding the mortgage had taken steps to foreclose.

Farrell was anxious to remain on the South Shore this summer, police said. They declared he had urged his wife to retain title to the cottage.

Farrell was quoted by the police

MAYOR FIGHTS NEW TRAFFIC SIGNAL BILL

Mayor Nichols, through Atty. Elijah Adlow, today opposed a bill establishing a uniform system of traffic signals throughout the state at a hearing before the House ways and means committee.

Adlow drew attention to the fact a traffic study is still going on in Boston. But in any event, he said, Boston does not want to have imposed upon it restrictions of the state department of public works...

He favored one section of the bill relating to dummy policemen. The power of the "dummy," he declared, should be validated in view of the fact former Registrar of oMtor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin had advised motorists they did not have to obey such signals and in consequence of which many are ignored.

Associate Commissioner of Public Works Richard KK. Hale defended the bill in its entirety. He said the signs would be uniform in loction and operation only and the department would not interfere with police control of traffic.

The bill, he pointed out, would simply require cities and towns to submit for approval any proposed traffic sign rules.

WIFE GONE FOR WEEK SHOWS UP AT MOTHER'S

"Missing" for a week, and sought by the police at the request of her husband, Mrs. Alvina Sprogna of Mountain ave., Revere, a 20-year-old mother, returned to her mother's home today, denying her husband's story that she ran away with another man.

"My husband knew I was visiting a friend in Boston and he knew just where I was, but he wanted to make trouble for me," she said. "As soon as I learned he had told the police to find me I went right to police headquarters and told them all about it."

The young mother was married when 14 years old and her baby girl is three years old. Her husband is now living with his family in Boston.

TO DINE FLIERS SUNDAY NIGHT IN BOSTON

More than 1200 Boston folk of German and Irish descent will have a chance to shake hands with the brave crew of the Bremen at the reception tendered the heroes by the joint Irish and German societies at the Copley-Plaza next Sunday night.

The reception, scheduled for 6:30 o'clock, will precede the dinner to be staged an hour later.

The joint committee of representatives of the Irish and German societies has prepared all its plans, Matthew Cummings and Herman J. Schneider, the joint chairman, having completed all arrangements at a meeting held in the Boston Turn Verein at 24 Amory st., Jamaica Plain.

The sale of tickets was stopped almost as soon as it was started, for so great was the demand that the tickets were gone in a matter of minutes.

Timothy A. Smiddy, minister of the Irish Free State, and Mrs. Smiddy, have been invited to the reception, according to Chairman Cummings.

The program to begin at 7:30 p. m., as annouhced was:

Invocation by the Rev. George A. Godduhn, address by Governor Alvan E Fuller, address by Mayor Malcolm E Nichols, music; address by Professor J. Walz, Harvard University music, address by the Rev. Philip O'Donnell, address by ex-Mayor James M. Curley, music, address by Robert H. O. Shultz, music, address by Joseph F. O'Connell, music, address by Francis E. Slattery, address bby Frank Seiberlich; conclusion, singing of national airs of Germany, Ireland and America.

FLIER IN TAIL SPIN LANDS HIS PASSENGERS SAFELY

Selma, Cal., May 14 (AP)—Norman Miller, Selma aviator, brought his plane and two passengers safely to earth after a portion of the right upper wing and aileron had broken away and forced the ship into a tail spin at an altitude of nearly 1500 feet. He and the passengers were only slightly injured. When the ship went into a tail spin, Miller, by speeding up his engine, managed to straighten it out when it was within 200 feet of the earth and landed in a vineyard.

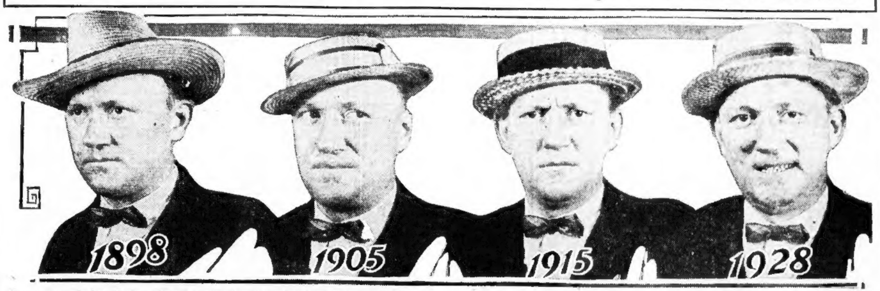
When It Comes to Evolution ⌓ Just Squint at These Straws



Tomorrow being Straw Hat Day, "Bill" Stonebreaker, Salvation Army publicity man, rummaged through the donations in search of a top-piece. The Kansas farmer style of 1898 didn't take his fancy. He seems rather coy in that 1905 "skuller" with the colored band. Obviously he's displeased with 1915's vintage. "I'll buy a new one," said "Bill," and he did.

NOBILE WAITS CLEARING SKIES FOR POLE TRIP

(Copyrighted by the Associated Press, 1928.)

King Bay, Spitzbergen, May 14 (AP)—The dirigible Italia will make another flight into the north polar regions as soon as good weather prevails.

The crew is working day and night filling up Gen. Umberto Nobile's craft with gas and bezine.

The wet snow of the last day and night has covered the Italia with a white mantle, which it was difficult to get off, but it was melting today and the ship was drying under the sunshine.

Too Stormy Now for Nobile to Go North

Oslo, Norway, May 14 (INS)—Stormy weather still prevailed today over the North Pole area, preventing another flight of the exploration dirigible Italia even if necessary repairs had been made.

The hangar in which the balloon was placed after the ill-starred flight of last Friday i without a roof and great quantities of snow have fallen upon the top of the dirigible Gen. Nobile directed the removal of part of the snow from the hangar.

A radiogram from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, where the Italia is now held, said that Gen. Nobile hoped that improved weather would enable him to hop off on Wednesday.

BELCHERTOWN HOTEL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Belchertown, May 14 (AP)—The Park View hotel a three-story wooden structure was destroyed by a fire shortly after midnight today. Blazing brands and sparks were carried by the wind onto roofs of buildings along both sides of the town common, a the head of which the hotel stood and the town hall Congregational church four houses and a barn caught fire, but the Amherst fire department was able to extinguish the blaze in each case before it had made much progress. The loss on the hotel is placed at about $35,000.

Delay Return of Stricken Bremen Relief Flier to Hub

St. John, N. B., May 14 (AP)—Lieut. Muir H. Fairchild, U. S. A., a pilot of the expedition on its way to the Junkers plane Bremen who was taken ill Saturday night, will not be taken to Boston today.

He was still confined to his bed in a hotel today and while he was reported to be feeling somewhat better it was decided not to move him yet.

"A start will not be made until things are all right," Lieut. Richard E. Cobb, army pilot who brought another flier here to take Fairchild's place, said, "and we cannot now tell when that will be."

Lieut. Fairchild is stationed at Bolling field Washington. The pilot sent north to relieve him is Lieut Elwood Quesada. On Fairchild's return to Boston it is planned to take him back to Washington in another waiting plane.

WILSON TELLS OF DECIMO 'STEAL'

America, formerly the Decimo Club, was subjected to a rigid cross-examination regarding the financial status of the organization.

A report of Ernst & Ernst, auditors, was submitted to show that in the three months between June 30 and September 30, 1927, the clubs funds dwindled from $618,383 to $123,550. Wilson said he did not know where the money had gone.

Decimo's income for a period of three years up to that time was $1,830,226, it was disclosed.

Wilson said he did not believe any "real value" had yet been received by any members from their association with the organization.

WHEN HE MET READING

Under direct examination Wilson said he never met Reading until the Sunday preceding the Decimo convention in New York, when the attorney-general addressed some 25 delegates at a "caucus" called to discuss the changes made by Hugh B. Monjar in Reading's revision of the bylaws. Reading told them, Wilson testified, that he felt not all of the club funds had been properly used.

The new Decimo head did not know of Monjar's contract for a portion of the membership initiation fee until the convention was held, he said.

Monjar was agreeable to turning over the stocks and bonds for audit, Wilson said. He was not under duress or threats when he acted, testified the Decimo head. The transaction he described as a "friendly discussion. He corroborated much previous testimony to the effect that the attorney-general made no threats.

The Decimo Club is now the Decimo Trust of America, Wilson testified. Seeking the return of money from Monjar the club has received cash, stock or notes in nearly all instances, he said.

Wilson told of approaching Reading with regard to his further being retained as counsel. Reading set the figure at $25,000 for acting in an advisory capacity with the provision that he not go into court. Wilson said he took the matter up with his associates who thought $50,000 would be a fair figure, Wilson said.

The club as it is now functioning had detailed plans for educational and vocational work. Of Monjar's previous connection with it, witnesses said: "He got together a group of men for customers of his own privately owned business."

TALK OF LARCENY

Under cross-examination by Hammond, Wilson admitted the terms "larceny," "steal," "embezzlement" and "criminal prosecution" had been used at the conference with Monjar, the latter term pertaining to Selvaggi's investigation in New York.

Q.—Did Reading say Selvaggi was investigating the larceny of funds? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you remember Reading saying that Selvaggi's point throughout was the larceny of funds? A.—Yes.

Q.—And did he not say: "You would not only face civil, but also criminal proceedings?" A.—Yes.

Q.—And did he not say with reference to the $100,000 that Monjar had taken from Decimo Club: "That is not only a loan but a steal?" A.—Yes.

Q.—And in a forcible manner? A.—That's plain enough.

Before joining Decimo Club, Wilson made no investigation of it, he admitted. He said he had returned from his own pocket the initiation fees of several members who did not think they could afford to stay in the club.

Q.—They didn't think they had got their money's worth? A.—I don't think any real value has been obtained out of Decimo Club up to the present time. We are attempting to build up an organization.

Q.—You said that about the only object of Decimo had been the enrichment of Monjar? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the source of your information on that point? A.—Monjar.

FUNDS VANISH.

Q.—When did you first learn all the details of the June retainer? A.—I can't say.

Q.—Until January 9, 1928, you had no information that such an individual as Barrett existed, did you? A.—No.

Q.—And there was no record that Reading had been retained? A.—No, sir.

Wilson's attention was called to the report of Ernst & Ernst, auditors.

Q.—This shows that the club had a balance of $618,383 in the bank on June 30, 1927? A.—Yes.

Q.—That its total income over a period of three years was $1,830,226. A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the cash on hand or in banks September 30, 1927? A.—$123,550.

Q.—As against $618,383 on the previous June 30? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Where had all that money gone to, do you know, between those dates? A.—No, sir, I don't.

125 JOBLESS MEN STORM NEW BRITAIN CITY HALL

New Britain, Ct., May 14 (AP)—Unemployed men to the number of 125 stormed the municipal employment bureau in City Hall today, breaking through a closed door.

James Desmond and James Cochrane, agency directors, gathered up their books and index cards, announced the bureau was closed for the day and made their escape. Work had previously been provided for about 75 laborers on city street and sewer projects.

3 MEN AND WOMAN HELD IN RUM RAIDS

Three men and a woman were arrested and a quantity of liquor seized in two raids by the Boston liquor squad today.

John Curwan and Henry Hanson were taken in a cigar store on West Broadway, South Boston, where 22 pints of ancient spirits were seized.

Mrs. Laura Caratella and Lawrence Caratella and 26 gallons of wine were captured in a Florence st., South End, raid.

AUTO DRIVER IN BUS COLLISION HELD IN $500

Following a collision today between a Boston-Providence bus and an automobile in Center st., Jamaica Plain, in which 15 bus passengers narrowly escaped injury, Otto Agydrich of Mozart st., driver of the automobile, was arrested and held in $500 in West Roxbury court.

He is charged with drunkenness, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and driving so as to endanger lives and safety of the public. He pleaded not guilty, and hearing was set for Friday.

The accident occurred near Center ter. The bus was driven by Hector Cournoyer of Knight st., Providence, police said.

CONGRESS HOPEFUL FOR MOST OF THE BIG BILLS

Washington, May 14 (INS)—Congress continued to grind away at a leisurely pace today with adjournment tentatively set for May 26 and a dozen important measures still awaiting final action. Leaders were confident most of the big bills would be disposed of unless the threatened Boulder dam filibuster in the Senate wrecks the program. There was a possibility of adjournment being set back another week.

CAMBRIDGE ZONING LAW HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Washington, May 14 (INS)—The zoning ordinance of Cambridge, Mass., was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court today insofar as it prevented Saul M. Nectow from obtaining a permit to build a commercial building at the corner of Brookline and Henry sts., zoned for residential purposes.

BABY CRUELLY ATTACKED BY MAN IN HOME

Cruelly beaten by an unidentified man today, Dorothy Cushing, five, of Stone st., Charlestown, was found moaning in pain by her father when he returned home from work.

Her mother, who had entered the house a short time before the father, became hysterical at the sight of the child, according to the police, and could do nothing to aid her.

The little girl was taken to Haymarket Relief Hospital where she told police of a stranger who entered the house in the absence of her parents and beat her about the head, besides holding his hand over her mouth so she could not scream.

The arrival of the mother is believed to have prevented further attack. Police have a description of a drunken man who sought a taxicab in the neighborhood and seemed in a hurry to get away.

DOCK WORKER HURT WHEN HURLED INTO HARBOR

Knocked into the water by a load of lumber which was being swung to the dock from a Clyde Line vessel, James Boka, 42 and single, of Main st., Charlestown, was seriously injured today. He was taken from the water by fellow workmen and sent to Haymarket Relief Hospital, where his name is on the danger list. He has several fractured ribs, severe bruises and internal injuries.

FIND BODY OF LODGER IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

The body of George Moody, 75, a lodger at Birch st., Roslindale, was found in bed in his gas-filled room by the landlady, Mrs. Sarah Adams, today. Gas was escaping from a wall bracket. The police were notified and the body was removed to the Southern Mortuary

Find Alcoholic Daddy Mice Strong on Sons

Berlin, (AP)—Dr. Agnes Blum believes that fathers moderately addicted to alcohol are most likely to have male children, basing her belief on tests on animals since 1921 at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Biological Research in Dahlem near Berlin.

Her conclusion has been accepted by many German scientists while others again hold that the results were due to the racial peculiarities of the animals upon which she experimented. For experimenting purposes white mice were chosen. They were then paired off, there being 10 alcoholic and 10 non-alcoholic males.

One group of males was fed normally while the other ten inhaled alcohol which promptly passed into their blood. Mating the alcoholic males with the female animals resulted in an overwhelming majority of male offspring.

STOPS BODY ODOR PROTECTS HEALTH

LETTER BARES POWER TRUST'S ATTEMPT TO REACH U. S. SENATORS

TO BLOCK BOULDER DAM BILL

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

By Universal Service

Washington, May 14—Discovery of a cryptic letter revealing that the Washington lobby of the power trust endeavored to establish a contact with members of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives in its campaign to block the Boulder canyon dam and flood-protection legislation has been made by the Federal Trade Commission.

The letter involves the names of Senators Reed Smoot of Utah and Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado and Representative Elmer O. Leatherwood of Utah.

It was written February 10, when the Boulder dam legislation was pending, by Judge Stephen B. Davis to Philip H. Gadsden of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia.

Davis is the $50,000-a-year executive director of the power trust lobby in Washington. Gadsden is one of its directors.

The letter is as follows:

"Mr. P. H. Gadsden, vice-president the United Gas Improvement Co., Broad and Arch sts., Philadelphia, Pa.:

My Dear Mr. Gadsden—The enclosed represents draft of a new Boulder Canyon dam bill which is receiving considerable attention and which, I judge, will be sponsored by Senator Phipps. The amendments on a separate sheet represent Leatherwood's ideas and will be presented by Senator Smoot.

"The bill has not been introduced. It is still in the conversational stage.

"Very truly,

"STEPHEN B. DAVIS."

An identical letter was sent by Davis to Charles W. Appleton, vice-president of the General Electric Company at 120 Broadway, New York.

Lobby Brought Pressure on Late "Uncle Joe" Cannon

Washington, May 14—How the national lobby of the Power trust, which has raised $400,000 to defeat the Boulder Canyon Dam bill, brought pressure upon the late "Uncle Joe" Cannon in an attempt to force the venerable statesman to support their plans, is revealed in private documents seized by the Federal Trade Commission.

"Uncle Joe" was then a member of the House from Illinois and the Power trust discovered that he was opposed to the constitutional amendment to abolish the issuance of tax-exempt securities by states and municipalities.

M. H. Aylesworth, who was then and is now the director of the National Electric Light Association, which last year spent $1,000,000 for lobby, propaganda and other uses, decided to build some fires under the old statesman.

WROTE PRATHER.

He, accordingly, wrote R. V. Prather of the Great Lakes division of the association to bring pressure upon "Uncle Joe" by having his constituents telegraph him that they desired him to support the amendment. The power lobby employed the same tactics last year by deluging congressmen with telegrams against the Boulder dam bill, supposedly from disinterested citizens and organizations.

Aylesworth's letter to Prather concerning "Uncle Joe" was as follows:

"As you know, the Green resolution is about to be voted on in the House of Representatives. This resolution provides that tax-exempt securities issued by municipalities and states shall be no longer tax-exempt. You can realize the importance of the passage of this resolution. As a constitutional amendment, it makes a two-thirds majority and may be acted on at once.

"Therefore, quick action on your part is necessary. We find that Uncle Joe Cannon and Congressman King, of Illinois, are opposed to the amendment. I believe these men would listen to the voice from home. Can you arrange to have their friends telegraph them? This is quite important and I wish you would let me know what you accomplish."

Prather replied in the following letter:

"I am in receipt of yours of November 30th, relative to the Green resolution, and I will bring all pressure to bear that I can on the persons you mention.

"These being old members, however, I doubt if pressure would be of very much value."

PENNSYLVANIA PUBLIC SERVICE INFORMATION COMMITTEE WIDENER BLDG PHILADELPHIA

NOVEMBER 8th-1926

DOCKET No. ...... EXHIBIT No. 1268

IN THE MATTER OF 3R 83

DATE 5/4/28 WITNESS ..

Major Richardson,

Dear Major:-

While attending the meeting held at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton a few days ago, I mentioned to you the matter of getting the various newspapers to publish some of the editorials which are furnished by your Bureau.

I beg to give you the names that this matter should be addressed to as follows:-

Harry E.Smith, Publisher,
Atlantic City Sunday Press
Atlantic City Press Union Publishing Co.,
Atlantic and Penna.Avenues, Atlantic City.

Atlantic City Times,
Attention of Mr.Walker,
Union Bank Building,Atlantic & Kentucky Avenues,
Atlantic City, N.J.

Pleasantville Press,
Attention of Kenneth W.Goldthwaite,
Pleasantville, N.J.

This covers the newspapers that we have in our territory and if you will mail all communications as suggested, I am sure we will get some benefit of the good editorials which you are contributing.

I also give you the name of Milton Cross, Manager of the Boardwalk Illustrated News Company, 1235 Boardwalk, Atlantic City. I have conferred with these publishers and they have expressed a willingness to go along with us.

As I see it, the more we can get the various publishers to take up these articles and use them, the more interest we will create with the Utility Company. I feel that the Companies do not fully appreciate as I do, the real value received from your Bureau. I will look forward in seeing you at the meeting in Atlantic City about November 19th.

Sincerely yours,
NEW JERSEY GAS ASSOCIATION

LNY:LM

PRESIDENT

THIS interesting letter shows how the Power Lobby gets newspapers to publish editorials written by the Power Lobby itself. The letter is Exhibit 1268 in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the Power Lobby and the so-called Power Trust.

It shows L. N. Yetter, president of the New Jersey Gas Association, writing to Major J. S. S. Richardson and telling him the names of New Jersey papers that were ready to publish editorials which Richardson had written.

Richardson, who received the letter, was at that time director of the Pennsylvania Public Service Information Commission, the State lobby and propaganda organization of the Pennsylvania electric power interests.

Major Richardson has since been promoted. Now he is the $15,000 publicity director of the Joint Committee of National Utility Associations, the National Power Lobby, which the Federal Trade Commission investigation has shown, has collected a $400,000 slush fund being spent to defeat Boulder Dam.

Before Major Richardson was with the Pennsylvania State Power Lobby he was city editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Press clippings reveal that a single anti Boulder Dam editorial is often reproduced verbatim wholy or in part in a number of newspapers widely scattered throughout the country.

For example, an entire article attacking Boulder Dam and entitled "Adjournment Planned," was reproduced word for word in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the Danville (Va.) Bee, the Plymouth (Ind.) Democrat and the Kokomo (Ind.) Dispatch, all during the week of April 23 this year.

Another entire editorial attacking Boulder Dam, and entitled "Oil and Legislation," was printed between April 19 and April 23 in the Winona (Minn.) Herald-Republican, the New Kensington (Pa.) Dispatch, the Gloucester (Mass.) Times and the Westerly (R. I.) Sun.

It is important for the Federal Trade Commission to learn the reason for these identical editorials.

Russians to Aid Indians

Bombay, May 14 (INS)—Many Russian workers have sent word that they would send funds to all strikers in Indian industry. The money will be used to support the families of the strikers.

Lindy Went to School Very Smart Pupil, Too

New York, May 14 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh now is an accomplished navigator. So is Thomas J. Lanphier, commandant of Selfridge Field, Mich.

Lieut.-Comdr. P. V. H. Weems, who was given leave of absence by the Navy Department to teach Lindbergh the latest navigational aids, found him so apt a pupil he is returning to his ship.

"All that I have done with Col. Lindbergh is to demonstrate to him that ocean navigation can easily be applied to aerial navigation," Lieut.-Comdr. Weems said. "It is simple and he caught on quickly. I can do no more."

Of his other pupil, Maj. Lanphier, the navy navigator, who is credited by his colleagues with being the leading air navigator of the service, said:

"Maj. Lanphier knows all about my methods. I visited him for some time and he can easily orient himself at any time, regardless of his location."

SCORES ARE HOMELESS IN CANADIAN FLOOD

Ft. Coulone, Que., May 14 (AP)—Desolation stretched for miles r[illegible] this village today as scores of families were made homeless by the steady rise of the Attawa and Coulone rivers.

All main thoroughfares were flooded and boats were the chief means of transportation. This village virtually was an island.

Marchand bridge across the Coulone river was jammed with thousands of logs. It was feared the structure might be washed away.

NAMES BOARD TO DIVIDE NORTHERN ARTERY COST

Judge Sanderson of the Supreme Court today appointed the following commission of three to apportion the expense of the Northern Artery among the cities and towns affected: James D. Colt of Brookline, William H. Hitchcock of Dedham and Alfred R. Shrigley of Hingham. Hitchcock and Shrigley are former assistant attorneys-general.

MOVE TO EXTRADITE TWO IN SLAYING OF OFFICER

Extradition from Massachusetts of the two alleged slayers of Irvin H. Nelson, Connecticut state policeman, was sought by Connecticut today. Armed with papers signed by Governor Trumbull, William E. Jackson county detective, and Ross V. Urquhart, lieutenant-commander of the Connecticut state police, appeared at the State House. The men whose custody they seek are Roland G. Lalon and Albert J. Raymond, two of the four "icebox bandits" now in jail at Springfield. Nelson was slain at Pomfret Ct., April 6. Counsel for the accused have notified Governor Fuller they desire a hearing and it is expected they will fight extradition.

HUNT CASH AND WILL OF SLAIN MRS. FARRELL

as asserting his wife had been drinking when he saw her with "two men and three girls," but her friends are quoted as denying this and as declaring she was sober.

The body of Mrs. Farrell was taken to Boston, after District Attorney Wilbur and Medical Examiner Peterson had given a permit to the slain woman's family to remove it.

Meanwhile, experts at Brockton and at Harvard were completing their chemical and microscopic examination of portions of the body. The contents of the stomach of Mrs. Farrell were analyzed, and on this analysis police said they were relying to know the cause of the young woman's death.

Blows on her head and body, they said, may or may not have been sufficient to cause death.

The report from the scientists was anxiously awaited by the police today.

INTERVIEW FRIENDS

Chief of Police Lyman B. Preston of this town and State Detective Albert Brouillard went to South Boston today to interview persons who were with Mrs. Farrell when she motored to Marshfield last Monday.

Chief Preston said he wished to get the firsthand story of these South Boston persons, so that he might check up on the story told him by Farrell.

Farrell is quoted as having denied statements that his wife had considerable money and that he had "spent much or most of it."

Other detectives today again searched the Farrell cottage known as "Maureen." The dwelling stands near the main highway to Brant Rock.

Among others questioned was Joseph Goodwin of Shawmut ave., Brant Rock. He was quoted by detectives as having declared that he had seen Farrell at the cottage on the afternoon of Thursday, the day the accused husband found her lifeless body in the dwelling, according to his story.

"Farrell parked his sedan on the left hand side of the highway, jumped out, hurried to the house, until he stopped at the door," Goodwin was quoted as stating. It was between 3 and 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

"I was working in a ditch nearby. I did not see Farrell leave the house."

Police said this story contradicted that told by Farrell, who said he discovered the body late that night.

Other than the suggestion of money as having played a part in the crime, police said they were without information on which they might frame any idea as to a motive for the murder.

Farrell is 42 years of age, a native of South Boston, and twice married. In his youth he attained local fame as an athlete, gaining the nickname of "Duke," by which he is still known.

After the death of his first wife three years ago, he started a taxi business in Dorchester.

REVERE BOY BURNED AS TANK EXPLODES

James Boynton, 11, of 20 Hall st., Revere, was slightly burned about the neck and shoulders and his hair was singed when Paul Cote, 14, of Beach st., Revere, a playmate, tossed a lighted firecracker into the gasoline tank of a motor car parked at 77 Beach st.

DRESSING A MOVIE STAR

Andre-ani, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer designer, plans a costume for Gertrude Olmstead

HOLLYWOOD, CAL.—"Create a costume," say star and director. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's wardrobe department creates it on the spot.

To keep their millions of dollars' worth of lovely costumes new-looking during months of hard wear in making a picture, Lux is used.

"We insist on Lux and Lux only," Joe Rapf, supervisor of the wardrobe department says, "because Lux prolongs the life of costumes, keeps them looking like new regardless of how delicate they may be."

And now all the great motion picture studios in Hollywood use Lux, to keep clothes of every description, from negligées to camping togs, new-looking more than twice as long.

Millions of women everywhere find pure Lux suds can be depended on to wash all nice things so safely that they stay new far longer than when washed other ways. Lux is sold only in the blue box, never in bulk.

'PUG NOSE TEA ROOM' BARRED BY BAUER

Even if Nate Siegel, former New England lightweight champion, succeeds in having the Lynn City Council rezone the first district and allow Siegel's projected tearoom to operate, Mayor Bauer will post so many policemen at the tearoom that patrons will not care to go there, he informed Siegel today.

The former boxer, pleading to the Mayor that his war wounds had made impossible his continuing boxing, went to Bauer to protest the Saturday ruling of City Solicitor Patrick Shanahan that the proposed tearoom in Anchor rd., Lynn, was in violation of the zoning laws.

"I don't think anybody with a pug nose and a cauliflower ear is the right sort of host at a tearoom," the mayor told Siegel in refusing support. "If some college were running the place, it would be all right."

Siegel said he would hire counsel immediately and continue his fight to open the tearoom, for which the licensing board has granted a license.

ATTACKS GIRL ON AUTO RIDE

Pawtucket, R. I., May 14 (AP)—Vyonne Degre, 22, a servant in a Central Falls home, is in the Pawtucket Hospital in a critical condition, the victim, police believe, of an attack while in an automobile with a man who had offered her a ride in Woonsocket.

She was found in front of her employer's home nearly unconscious. She had been visiting at her own home in Woonsocket over the week end. While waiting for a bus to take her to Central Falls she was offered a ride, she said.

She accepted the offer, but she refused to tell what happened afterward. At first she said the man was her cousin, but later denied this.

URGES INSULAR TOUR FOR WAR SECRETARY

By JAMES L. WILLIAMS JR.

Washington, May 14—Both nominees for President this year will be urged by President Coolidge's Secretary of War—Dwight F. Davis of Missouri—to declare in favor of selecting his successor immediately after election day in order that the new Secretary of War may visit the Philippines and Porto Rico between that time and the time he takes office on the fourth of next March.

No Secretary of War has visited the Philippines since President Taft's administration. He sent Secretary Dickinson to the islands on an inspection trip, Mr. Taft having made a similar trip while he was President Roosevelt's Secretary of War.

Under the administration of President Wilson or President Harding the Secretary of War did not set eyes on the Philippines. Secretary Davis was ready to go several years ago, but pressure of administrative duties here prevented.

WORK WILL PREVENT.

His experience in his present office leads him to believe that unless his successor goes to the Far East before he takes office the work of the War Department will prevent him from getting there during his term of office.

If the President-elect will select his Secretary of War immediately after the presidential election the War Department will be glad to arrange for him to go to the Philippines, make a trip from one end of the archipelago to the other and return by way of the Panama Canal and Porto Rico—all three of whose governments are, so far as their affairs at Washington are concerned, under the supervision of the Secretary of War.

PLENTY OF TIME.

It would be entirely feasible for the new Secretary of War to make such a trip and thoroughly inform himself regarding conditions in all parts of the Philippines, the new work about to be started to enlarge the capacity of the Panama Canal and the problems that are pressing for consideration in Porto Rico and get back to Washington in time for the inauguration.

Mr. Taft is the only Secretary of War who during his term of office visited the Philippines, Porto Rico and the Panama Canal. Secretary Davis has been to Porto Rico and Panama, but he knows by his own experience how essential it is for the head of his department to have a first-hand knowledge of Philippine affairs.

TWO TICKETS FOR LETTERS

Boys and girls under 16 years of age who write to the Birthday Editor before next Friday will receive TWO tickets to Loew's State Theater, instead of one as formerly.

Those who haven't sent in their letters, telling why they are glad their birthday happened to fall on the date it did, should take advantage of this last-minute offer, as the feature will positively close on Friday.

Think of some unusual reason which should make you proud of your birthday, then put it in writing and send it to the Birthday Editor.

Your reward will be an invitation to attend the theater as a guest of the Boston Evening American, with the added privilege of being able to take a relative or friend with you. Remember, no letters mailed after Friday will be honored.

Address, Birthday Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

DRUGGISTS ARE 'THREATENED' BY DRYS

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 14—Prohibition agents are conducting an apparently unauthorized campaign of coercion and threat against druggists and other dealers in non-intoxicating beverages in an effort to enforce the Volstead act, it was learned today.

Druggists have been warned by agents that the sale of certain non-intoxicating substances, such as preparations of juniper oil, commonly known as "gin drops," may result in the loss of their licenses to sell medicinal liquor.

SEE NO VIOLATION

Sales of this character were characterized by dry agents as "compounding a felony," although a majority of violations of the prohibition laws constitute only misdemeanors.

Officials said statements of this kind are not authorized by prohibition heads and are being made without the knowledge of the Treasury Department. It was explained by Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran that where substances are sold and labeled as liquor flavoring there is a violation and such transactions will be stopped by the Government.

Officials admitted, however, that there is no violation of the Volstead act in selling non-intoxicating beverages, even though they may later be used in combination with alcohol for drinking purposes.

DRIVE ON GINGER ALE.

While a campaign was made by prohibition agents against the sale of ginger ale and other soft drinks in night clubs, on the ground that these beverages obviously were to be made "the background" for high balls and cocktails, some officials privately expressed doubt whether this form of prohibition is legal.

WINS $1000 TEACHING FELLOWSHIP AT TUFTS

Virginia Campbell

Miss Virginia Campbell, a senior at Wooster College, Van Wert, O., has been awarded a $1000 Teaching Fellowship in the department of English at Tufts College for the year 1928-29. Miss Campbell is outstanding in literary and dramatic circles at Wooster. Throughout her course she has found time for social activities and has attained prominence as a charming hostess in many functions of the undergraduates.

JOHN D., JR.'S, GUESTS TOLD TO DRESS FOR COMFORT

Taunton Widow Left $50,000

Newport, R. I., May 14 (INS)—The entire estate of the late Frederick Bennett Cudworth, by a will filed today in the probate court here, was left to his wife, Sarah Turner Cudworth, formerly a school teacher in Taunton, Mass. The value of the estate was estimated at $50,000. Mr. Cudworth died two months ago at Henderson, N. C.

Floating Jungle Zoo at Halifax on Way to Hub

Halifax, N. S., May 14 (AP)—A veritable floating zoo, with hundreds of wild animals, birds and snakes from India and Africa aboard, was here today. The steamer Kabinga, en route to Boston and New York, put in here to the accompaniment of screams and roars from her jungle cargo.

There were three shipments of animals, reptiles and birds aboard, one assigned to the Toronto zoo and two for private collectors. One of the latter was in charge of Capt. and Mrs Christopher Schulz, big game hunters from Tanganyiki, Africa.

The ranks of the animals had been depleted through death by sickness incurred in the change of climate. Some three hundred monkeys died and one tame baboon, which had been given the run of the ship, fell overboard.

Among the animals were tigers, lynxes, hyenas, bears, leopards, antelope, buffalo, civet cats, porcupines and rhinoceroses. The birds included in the collections were vultures, parakeets, pheasants, ducks, love birds and rice birds. There also was a family of pythons.

Dearest Anne:

through an old fashioned garden, Anne and did the lovely flowers all cling to your chiffon dress? Or is that one of the beautiful flowered chiffon dresses from the Spanish Galleries of Chandler & Co., Tremont St. at West, that you are wearing? I know that you found it there, priced at $15, for the dresses look like flowers, indeed, with their riotous color. The prints come in all varieties. There is a dear model in flat crepe, pleated all round, and some three piece georgettes. These dresses come in sizes 14 to 20, in the Misses' Dept., and 36 to 46, in the Women's Dept.

Satiny Soft

is milady's skin. She knows how to keep it clean and fresh and clear by using "Savon Reine Des Cremes," (cold cream soap) that delightful preparation made by Lesquendieu of Paris and sold exclusively by Meyer Jonasson & Co. Toilet Goods Dept., first floor, Tremont and Boylston Sts. It combines the properties of a good soap with those of a marvelous cream and cleanses the face thoroughly, leaving it soft and white. It makes a soft lather, doesn't waste away, has unusual whitening qualities and is priced at $1.50 a box. Milady also uses Flozor, priced at $2.50, put up by Lesquendieu and made from the herb camomile, which will give her hair a golden glint.

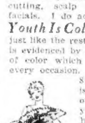
Glowing "Maize."

the color of yellow corn ripening in the sun, softest orchid, peach and flesh color are produced in the sheerest finest georgette and hand painted with blending colors in some delightful frocks for proms and commencement day at the Hugh J. Bradley, Inc., Women's Wearing Apparel Shop at 9 St. James Ave., Park Sq. Bldg., priced at $15.00. He has a full line of summer silks and wash silks in pastel shades priced at $15, some lovely wedding dresses priced from $15 to $22.50, and delightful evening gowns for $10.75. There are two-piece suits in tweed priced at $10.50 made just for you!

There's A Special Price

still available at the delightful shop of John P. Hughes, at 216 Tremont St., on permanent waves. Can you believe, after what you have seen of them, that you can have one of Miss Kitty McMahon's lovely natural permanents for only $9, together with a shampoo and wave set? It's worth the whole price of the permanent to see and experience that wonderful dryer that Mr. Hughes has perfected, which dries waves in 15 to 20 minutes, slipping quietly into three speeds, each of which intensifies the drying power. He specializes, also, in hair cutting, scalp treatments and facials. I do adore this shop!

Youth Is Color Conscious



just like the rest of the world, as is evidenced by the riotous maze of color which they wear for every occasion. Miss Evelyn at 8 Winter Street, is ever watchful of the trend of youth and she has in her shop very beautiful evening gowns in colors bright and new, that will delight you. Then there are her $8.95 and $12.95 dresses in all the new fabrics and colors. All the young people who are getting ready for commencement parties and Junetime affairs should visit Miss Evelyn!

"Stylis" Bloomers!

I saw the daintiest bloomers the other day in a marvellous quality priced at $3. Some were the yoke-front, semi-short style so popular with Miss Modern, others were in the yoke front, tight-knee pantie style that fits so perfectly. Another model was the regulation elastic top bloomer. They come in pink, beige and black and are made of pure silk-and-tubize, combining the clinging suppleness of silk with the wear-resisting qualities of tubize. Each garment bears an exclusive blue label. Just visit R. H. Stearns, Tremont St., at Temple Place, and ask for "Stylis"!

Mrs. Young and Billie are back with us again in their attractive French Beauty Shop at 110 Tremont Street, 3rd floor, and they are pleased to announce to our friends that Mr. Burt is with them again and ready to take care of our beauty needs in his usual competent manner. They give several kinds of permanents there, you know, at a very reasonable price and are going to have an operator on after six o'clock at night to accommodate girls who cannot make an early appointment. Telephone Capitol 8166 for appointments!

Very Cool

and decidedly new are the San-Fan Run-Proof vests and panties or bloomers which come in white, flesh, peach and nile at the San Fan Hosiery Shop, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St., Room 326. These attractive sets priced at $1.30 for the vest and $1.90 for the bloomers or panties, are guaranteed against runs and are new and unusual for summertime wear. There are more of the lovely chiffon stockings, regular $1.75 value, in all colors, priced at $1.00 or service weight if you prefer. The slogan of this shop is "The Best For Less!"

The Blessed Road

to eternal charm is Virozol, the genuine Swedish Face Bath. It touches your face with the tang of fresh sea breezes and is such a good astringent. It will refine and whiten your skin, and prevents the ravages of sun and wind and our changeable New England climate, while it corrects large pores. It is priced at $1.25 at Meyer Jonasson & Co., Toilet Goods Dept., First Floor, Tremont and Boylston Sts. Virozol Face Powder is pinky, soft and fragrant, and the Almond Cream is a fine skin food and cleanser. Make your nightly use of these delightful products a sacred rite!

Permanent Waves

are guaranteed by L. Cunningham, Superior Service Beauty Shoppe at 561 Boylston St., Copley Square. For this month only the price is $10 and you may have a large, deep, loose, or tight Marcel Permanent, with round ringlets or Mae Murray Curls. All the waves are wrapped for ringlet ends. You describe the style you want in this unusual shop, and they give it to you, waving your hair in soft waves or gently resetting old permanents. The Nestle Circuline and Frederics Vita-Tonic Compound methods are used. Telephone Back Bay 9069 for appointments.

The Little Folks'

clothes are in need of replenishing now, my dear, especially their sandals for play-time wear and I do want to tell you about the perfectly adorable beige sandals they have at Thayer McNeil Company, 47 Temple Place, or 414 Boylston St. They are made of beige elk with straps in a darker contrasting color, with the fine "Spartan" damp proof soles and the Thayer McNeil plastic last. They come in sizes 6 to 2 or 3 to 9 years. The price is $4 to $5. All our small friends will want a pair of these to complete their diminutive wardrobes.

The Bandbox,

that alluring small Millinery Shop at 568 Washington Street, where the hats are so tempting that you will want two or three, stands ready to give you its usual careful service. It is a one-price hat shop, $5 only. You'll find good-looking models in just the head-size you require. There are all sorts of hats in rare springtime color formation in all the smartest styles, which will delight you and all your friends. Let's visit the Bandbox now!

Summer Time Is Play Time for modern youth, for youth goes gayly walking down summer lanes filled with the delight and joy of play hours. At golf or tennis, hiking on woodland trails, touring along dusty country roads, boating, dancing on Club House porches, wherever you go you'll see sport stockings. For sport stockings made of lisle are in vogue this summer. There are smart tennis socks, shorter than those the kiddies wear, to slip over your silk stockings, which come in all colors, mostly beige or brown, priced at $1.50. And the best looking tan and brown fish net lisle sport stockings priced at $2.00. There are chiffon lisle stockings quite as sheer as silk with a dull lustre appropriate to sport togs, priced at $1.65 and $2.00, full fashioned, with lace clocks. You can hardly tell them from silk. These smart sport stockings are imported and give you just the right smart touch to your sport costume, without the worry that comes from pulled threads in silk stockings. For well you know how ruined your bestest silk stockings have been while hiking in the country. These delightful sport hose and many more are to be found in Filene's Hosiery Department, First Floor.

Those $10.00 Dresses

at the Spanish Galleries of Chandler & Co., Tremont St. at West, have certainly found a place in my heart. I must tell you again how lovely they are. There are printed chiffons in designs from polka dots to large floral patterns, flat crepes and sport dresses designed for play time in Summer, in pastel shades that you'll love. They have all sorts of white dresses, lovely and sheer, suitable for graduation or the parties that come in June. These dresses come in sizes from 13 to 46. We can now be economical and beautifully dressed!

At the Hollywood

Bobbing Shop, 3rd Floor, Room 322, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St., there is still a reasonable price on Mr. Troccoli's lovely permanents. These Nestle Circuline waves come out in wide waves which look like naturally curly hair, as is evidenced by the living models who display them. Mr. Troccoli invented the marvelous "Speed-Comfort" dryer which will dry finger waves in less than half the time it took before. He is unsurpassed as a bobbing expert and the marcels you get at this unusual shop are very fine as are the finger waves which are done, as everything is, under his supervision. Tel. Capitol 6437.

Lillian Has Been

roaming over the sands again and she is suffering so with wind burn. She'll appreciate with an understanding heart Quince Cream priced at $1.50 a bottle, a marvelous soothing and healing application for sun-burn wind-burn, rough skin, chapped hands, face or lips. This is an Ann J. MacHale product and is sold at S. S. Pierce Co., 69 Tremont St. Lillian has lately been using Ann J. MacHale's fine hair color restorer and her hair is soft and shining and fully restored to its natural golden gleam and shining loveliness. This is priced at $1.00 a bottle.

Natural Waves

are a blessing, and we may have them if we visit The Beauty Shop, on the 3rd floor, of Gilchrist's, at 417 Washington St. They are giving the famous Frederick method permanents which fall into such soft, wide waves, as beautiful as naturally wavy hair, for $10. This includes the shampoo and wave set. Then there are their well known popular "Contouration Treatments," which correct the contour, reduce localized fat, and iron out lines and wrinkles, making dry, sensitive skin like softest satin. "The Friendly Store" will give you, through its beauty shop, every possible sort of beauty culture.

Many Physicians

are recommending Dr. Saul's almost invisible light weight silk elastic stockings priced at $6.75 and they are such a help at this time of year when varicose veins swell and protrude and are apt to burst and give you much trouble. They make you so comfortable as do his expert treatments for corns and callouses. His summer weight arch support shoes for all types of feet are very good looking and are priced at $8. He has offered a special combination of a jar of Foot Balm and a can of foot powder for $1, which will give your feet comfort through the summer. You can order by mail by addressing Dr. Allen P. Saul, Room 312, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St.

The Poll Parrot Salon

and Nestle Circuline Permanent Wave Shop is well known to the fortunate visitors of the Home Beautiful Show, for Mr. Green was performing miracles in permanent waving there with his Miracle method so that spectators were convinced of his ability to achieve the really perfect wave. This is his own invention and procurable only at Poll Parrot Salons. The shop on Tremont St. and the one on Winter St. will have open house on May 19 when the city does honor to the Bremen fliers and we are all invited to visit them at that time. 177 Tremont St. (Cap. 6775), 58 Winter St. (Cap. 5846) and 40 Scollay Sq. (Hay. 2903).

For Your Ensemble

we'll go to the shop of Mae Callaghan, 51 Arcade, Park Square Bldg., for she has some wonderful two-piece ensembles in Kasha, and some tweeds. The frocks have silk tops with Kasha skirts with separate coats of Kasha that you may wear with other frocks. These come in rose, blue, green, tan and navy and are priced at $12.50. She has some smart three-piece ensembles with short coats; skirts and coats are of Kasha with blouses made of silk for the same price and a very special sale for Tues. and Wed. only on these in sizes 16 to 40. Other frocks are priced $10 to $22.50 for afternoon, party and sports wear.

Curves Have Come into their own again, but not quite as many curves as one will acquire if they stick to the comfort of rubber and elastic corsets. Old-fashioned corsets are definitely discontinued by modern women and along comes the happy medium, the Caporn garment, a custom-made combination brassiere and corset, with either back or side lacings, which control the figure and reduce the spreading of muscles caused by elastic corsets. Caporn's brassieres and bandeaus are custom made. Out-of-towners may be measured and fitted and get their corset in one day at Caporn's, 367 Boylston st., Standish Bldg. Tel. Ken. 4230.

The Spanish Galleries of Chandler & Co., Tremont St. at West, are "abrim" and running over with fine values. The coats priced at $15 are beyond your dreams of style smartness. There are Misses' coats, with smart "Johnnie collars" and patch pockets, in velveteen in browns, greens, reds, black and softest violet. At This Time of year your skin seems dry and not as soft and clear as you would like it. In spring we are all in need of oil packs to get our skin in a healthy, clear condition. Mme. Rose of 110 Tremont St., Room 322, is offering a very fine oil pack, priced at $2.50, which will put your skin in good condition, leaving it pinky soft and velvety fine as flower petals. She is very expert at giving permanents also and gives you her own personal attention. For appointments for any line of beauty culture call Liberty 2541, the "Rose-Light" shop where softest rose prevails!

There's Really No Need of wearing your shabby old fur coat next year when you can have it made over at Parker Bros., 3rd floor, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. They will remodel your entire coat and reline it with gorgeous brocaded and hand embroidered materials for $35 to $50, put it in cold storage for you and you can pay for it in the fall when you are ready to wear it. The coats he remodels are really beautiful. They look like new. It's truly magic the way he transforms coats, from old coats to snappy, up-to-date ones, at moderate prices.

How Would You Like a beautiful embroidered lace crowned hat in an extremely large head size but youthful lines priced at $5 for your young modern mother? You may have one, for Smart-style hats have arrived in profusion from New York at the Rollins Shop, recently opened at 79-81 Summer St., corner of Kingston St. There are Bankok hats, tailored peanut straw hats, viscas, felts in all shades, ballibuntis, and many horse hair matrons' hats in large head sizes priced $3 and up. You will find just the sort of hat to suit your mood or desire!

The Grace Gown Shoppe

at 41 Winter Street, Room 85, is just aglow with lovely colors and stunning one-of-a-kind dresses, just unpacked, brought here from New York yesterday by that competent gentleman, Mr. Al H. Gross, who is bringing us the New York styles in a varied assortment of frocks and gowns, silk underwear and hosiery. The gowns are drastically reduced in price for the time following the opening. These dresses are the latest New York styles and there are no two dresses alike!

Gem Air Permanents

priced at $8 for a limited time are unsurpassed for lovely wide waves. You can have them at the Cheney Beauty Shop at 175 Tremont St., fifth floor. No electric wires are used on the scalp, only hot air. For $2 you can have the famous Arnao Scalp Steamer treatment, which consists of a shampoo, steaming and a treatment which will make your hair shining and lovely, giving it strong health and beauty. This treatment also revitalizes permanents, bringing back the gleam and glow that was originally theirs. Call Capitol 2297 for appointments.

The Children's Hour

that delightful hour at dusk time when we stop our busy day and gather the children around us for story telling is the same always. We loved "Once-Upon-a-Time" fairy stories and children still love them. There are kindergarten books in Jordan Marsh Company's Children's Book Section, in the Annex. "The Adventures of Twinkly Eyes," a huge black bear; poems for children, a "Sleepy Time Story Book," and "Firelight Stories." There are books of mystery, adventure and western stories for boys from 8 to 16 and all those glad series of books for girls from 5 to 10. Let's get prepared for the happiness of "storytime" by getting a supply of books!

The Sales

of Hanan & Son on hosiery are well known generally and well attended by satisfied customers who appreciate quality merchandise. Did you know, Anne, that Hanan & Son have a new store conveniently located at 21 Temple Place and that May 14 to 19 marks the week of their wonderful sale of clear dyed, long-wearing, all silk chiffon hosiery reduced from $1.65 to $1.25! Service weight with lisle hem is reduced from $1.45 to $1.25. Let's visit this delightful new store with its good values!

Give Your Small Brother

the utter barefoot freedom of rightly clad feet which comes from wearing "The Little Gripper Playboy" moccasin on sale at E. W. Burt Co., 17 West st., priced from $3.50 to $6.85. Preserving the perfect foot, it induces correct poise and exercising and strengthening the muscles, it gives the little folks utter joy at playtime. It comes in sizes from 3 years to grown-up size in tans, smoked elk, pearl elk and in combination. For sturdy little feet this moccasin is just the thing!

Superfluous Hair

is not in order when milady makes herself ready for Junetime parties, and very carefully she watches her skin so that she will not be embarrassed with this growth. She does so want to be charming and have her skin soft and lovely. At the first hint of superfluous hair she calls Liberty 4466 and makes an appointment for day or evening with James Brooks, electric needle specialist at 100 Boylston St. who deftly and scientifically removes all traces of it permanently. Electrolysis is a safe, sure and sane method and the prices are moderate, $2 and $3 an hour. Satisfaction is guaranteed.

Facial Contour!

When women put on weight the first place that shows signs of loss of beauty is the back of the face and neck. A fold of fat forms there, deforming the contour and extending downward to the neck. If for any reason the weight is reduced, the skin falls in flabby folds and the deformity is accentuated. Dr. Post's Beauty Course corrects this deformity of contour, restores elasticity to the skin and natural beauty glows again in youthful tints. $5 facial demonstration for $2 convinces you of its effectiveness. Telephone for appointment or call at Post Institute, 6 Beacon St., Room 910.

Do You Wonder

that all our friends are so delighted with the permanent waves they get at the shop of L. Max, 154 Boylston st., entire third floor? It is true that the price is a trifle higher than the average, but the satisfaction that one has when the hair comes out in wide natural waves, falling into such lovely lines, is well worth the difference. L. Max is especially successful with hair dyeing and in bringing back hair to its natural shade when it has been spoiled by harsh dyes. His 35 years of experience have made him expert! BETTY ALDEN COMMENTS ON ACTIVITIES OF HORSE-LOVING MEMBERS OF NEWPORT COLONY

Notes Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, Jr., Is Building Magnificent Stable for Her Blue Ribboners

MRS. FREDERIC CAMERON CHURCH, JR., IS A MOST INTERESTING young matron. Besides being a decided social asset, and a most ornamental addition to New York and Boston topmost social stratas, she is riding a hobby for all it's worth, and running true to family tradition. Having been born a Vanderbilt it is the most natural thing in the world that Mrs Church should love fine horseflesh and own some outstanding equine wonders. And the exchange of social amenities not being superlatively important in her consideration, she finds creating and maintaining a stable an interest extremely absorbing.

DUDLEY PLACE IN NEWPORT, THE CHURCH ESTATE AT ONE MILE CORNER, is exactly the homelike and unostentatious summer place one of Mrs. Church's predelictions would choose for a home. There is a Southern Colonial mansion and many broad acres. And now there is being constructed there a finely appointed stable where the present Church string of horses and others yet to be added may pass their equine days most comfortably. With the Vanderbilt tradition and heritage and a keen love for horses, Mrs. Church is likely to become a foremost owner.

MRS. CHURCH ONLY RECENTLY WAS IN NEWPORT GIVING her personal attention to the progress of the work. Her stables already house some interesting blue blooded examples of horseflesh. There is "Fortitude," which passed to Mrs. Church's colors from those of the late Reginald Vanderbilt, her kinsman. And "Chipmunk," that Newporters saw last season between the shafts of a smart rig and driven by Mrs. Church at the Horse Show. Now some horses of national importance in the equine world are being added to the new stables.

OLD TIMERS WHO HAVE WATCHED WITH ENORMOUS regret the decline of interest in carriage horses are keenly interested in Mrs. Church's venture. Certain of them opine that some day in the not far future she may become one of the largest exhibitors in the carriage horse classes at this and that show. At any rate such a contingency would delight the gentry, who well remember the glorious but vanished days when the late Reginald Vanderbilt's stables were in their heyday of fame, and when Alfred Vanderbilt tooled a coach and four on English roads to the admiration of Lords and Ladies and entertainment of the populace.

OLD TIMERS ALSO REGARD WITH BENEVOLENCE WILLIAM VANDERBILT, heir to the late Alfred and inheritor of that gentleman's fine regard for carriage horses. A true Vanderbilt is the young master of Oakland Farm and its enormous stables. When he tooled the Vanderbilt coach "Venture" and its four handsome grays at the Newport Horse Show great was the Old Timers' rejoicing, for he looked exactly like his father, said they with one voice. His manner and his form were his father's to the last iota and in gray topper and formal morning coat he might have been Alfred himself.

IT MAY BE THAT BOSTON'S FINE AND FAMOUS ORCHESTRA, the "Symphony," will discourse sweet music for the tea hour this summer within the sacred social bulwark that is Newport's well known Casino. A pleasant likelihood, this. Interesting to every habitue of the fashionable stronghold, and doubly so to those of the ilk hailing from Boston, those great ones of the social world who know the Symphony in its native winter lair and consider attendance on "Fridays" something of a religious rite not to be lightly missed.

LAST SEASON THE NEWPORT CASINO LAWNS, VIVIDLY green as shamrock and softly smooth as Lyons velvet, blossomed with enormous rainbow striped umbrellas set over tables where the social big wigs might take their five o'clock beverage and listen the while to perfect rendered music. Bringing back into a Casino day this pleasant custom was a wise and delightful move by Casino governors last Summer. The old guard hailed the revival with warmest appreciation, remembering the sip o' tea of former days. They rallied to a man and woman to this gracious social amenity.

EVEN DID IT CATCH THE FANCY OF THE MODERNS, WHO found such an interlude in a strenuous day of sports and social duties quite a desirable relaxation. Altogether the revival was tremendously successful and scored a good mark for those gentlemen who have the say-so as to what shall and what shall not go on within the Casino's hallowed precincts. Adding Boston Symphony players to the ensemble would—so many consider—crown it with exactly the proper musical excellence.

MAY 17 IS A RED LETTER DAY IN BELMONT PARK ANNALS, opening as it does the Westchester Racing Association meeting. Names of prominent sportsmen are down on the list of box holders, the Wideners, the Wilsons, the Vanderbilts, the Whitneys, the Mackays and all those families so long associated with the sport of kings appearing thereon. Charles van Brunt Cushman of Pomfret, owner of the blue ribboners and ardent gentleman rider, has Box No. 104 reserved during the season. The Turf and Field Club promises to be gayest of the gay, as society's stronghold during the luncheon interlude.

WILL BOOM N. E. RECREATIONS

The third New England recreational conference under auspices of the committee of recreational resources of the New England Council will be held at the Hotel Vermont, Burlington, Vt., on May 25, it was announced today.

Problems of merchandising New England's recreational sources will be the chief topic discussed at the conference.

The conference is being held on Friday in order that those who attend may have opportunity to spend the week-end in the section along the northern border. A dinner and a cruise around Lake Champlain have been arranged as part of the entertainment features.

Speakers at the conference will include Mayor Clarence W. Beecher of Burlington, Governor John E. Weeks of Vermont and Hiram W. Ricker, chairman of the recreation committee.

BEACON HILL GROCER FOR HALF-CENTURY TO RETIRE

The last corner grocery store on Beacon Hill is soon to give way to the advance of modernity, and Frank S. Murphy, for more than a half century its proprietor, carries away with him more secrets about the "First Families of Boston" than are known even to the author of that best seller, the Blue Book.

The old store is at Mt. Vernon and Charles st., and has been there since canned goods and paper bags were startling innovations.

WIFE SEIZED IN DEATH PLOT

Patchogue, N. Y., May 14 (AP)—A housewife and a boarder were in jail today charged with plotting to hire a gunman to kill tht woman's husband for $100 and a share in the insurance.

Police said Mrs. Iva Austin, 23, confided to a truckman that she wished she knew a gunman. The truckman told police, and Deputy Sheriff Charles Barcellona, masquerading as a gunman, talked with Mrs. Austin.

Barcellona said he was given $20 and promised $30 more and a share in the $4,000 life insurance carried by Austin.

Another conference, Barcellona said, was held with Arthur Abadore, the boarder, present, and Abadore said if Austin's death were brought about successfully he would pay Barcellona $200 to kill his wife, mother of his two children, so he could be married to Mrs. Austin.

LOWTHORPE SCHOOL DIRECTORS TO MEET

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Lowthorpe School of Landscape Architecture for Women, is scheduled Wednesday at the Union Club. Mrs. Stephen B. BOY HIT WHILE HOOKING RIDE

Darting in the path of another car after being chased from a truck, according to police, seven-year-old Thomas Bright of Princeton st., East Boston, was injured today so badly that his name is on the danger list at the East Boston Relief Hospital.

Bright is declared to have been "hooking" a ride on the truck in Saratoga st., near his home.

The car which struck him and then passed over him was operated by Henry P. Vincent of Highland ave., Roxbury.

TELEGRAPH CLERK PICKS PARKER AS DRAFT PASSER

New York, May 14 (AP)—Freed of a charge of grand larceny because of the failure of bank officials to identify him in the theft of $87,000 securities from the Garfield National Bank, Harry Parker of Providence, R. I., was re-arrsteed today on another charge.

Parker was placed on a bench among the courtroom spectators while bank employes and officials tried to pick him out. A clerk for the Postal Telegraph Company identified him as a man who passed a draft on the Western Union, said to have been forged, and tried to pass one on the Postal.

HOOVER AND SMITH GET NEW JERSEY DELEGATES

Newark, N. J., May 14 (A.P.)—Election of delegates to the national party conventions in New Jersey's primary tomorrow, has been overshadowed by the fight for senatorial and gubernatorial nominations in the Republican ranks. There is no contest among the Democrats. Governor Smith of New York has no opposition for the State's 28 votes at Houston. Hoover's name is the only one on the Republican ballot for Presidential preference. Most of the candidates favor Hoover.

Governor Yields Chair to Little Radio Stars

Jerry, "the tough guy from the East Side," got the thrill of his 11 years today when he sat in Governor Fuller's chair at the State House during a visit to Boston with the Goldspot Pals, radio entertainers.

"I understand you are from the East Side," said the chief executive, beaming on the little boy in the big chair, "and folks from your district have a good chance of sitting in high places."

Shrimp, Goldspot, Percolator Perkins and Wu-Wu-Willie, who stutters, each took the opportunity to occupy the Governor's chair

The children, accompanied by Patrolman William McDermott, "handsomest cop in New York," and Raymond Knight, producer of Goldspot Pals program, spent the day visiting Mayor Nichols police and fire headquarters, the navy yard and Bunker Hill. They also had an airplane ride over the city.

They will give a program over station WEEI tonight at 6:45 as guests of the Big Brother Club.

HUB PIECES ARE FEATURED BY CIVIC BAND

By MOSES SMITH

The Civic Music Festival opened with several concerts, including the annual festival of choruses at Symphony Hall and a symphony program by the Boston Civic Symphony orchestra, at Jordan Hall, yesterday afternoon.

The latter concert had as notable features of interest, two compositions by local composers, F. S. Converse's "La Belle Dame Sans Merci," and Margaret McLain's overture, "Durochka." Converse's work, a ballade for orchestra and baritone solo, was composed more than a quarter of a century ago, and the harmonic idiom makes that fact more or less patent. The conductor, Joseph F. Wagner, and the orchestra gave a sympathetic performance, with David Blair McClosky as soloist.

The overture of Miss McLain, on the other hand, is the work of a composer herself less than a quarter of a century of age. Yet while the piece is of our times, the writer made no attempt to be smart. She was primarily concerned with what remains, despite all the theorists, a ormation" symphony, the walts from Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty," and Beethoven,s over-fundamental of music, the creation of melody. And Miss McLain's themes are charming, full of character, the more appealing since they do not try to be something other than themselves. The orchestration is skilful, occasionally ingenious. Both Miss McLain and Converse who were present, had to acknowledge the applause of the audience.

The rest of the program included Mendelssohn's seldom-heard "Refture to "Coriolanus." Wagner conducted with marked authority and seat. He deserves a great deal of credit for attaining such comparatively fine results from a body of players not professionals. But these players appeared amateurs in the finer sense—they were "lovers" of music.

It was also a happy notion, appropriate with the idea of a civic orchestra and a civic musical festival, that led Wagner to include on his program worthwhile pieces by Boston composers.

Can't Find Booze in Lynn, So 'Drowns His Sorrows in Milk'

This prohibition is discouraging sometimes, Daniel Galvin of Epping Falls, N. H., being in full accord with this sentiment. Daniel came all the way to Lynn to drown his sorrows and was pinched for drowning them in stolen milk.

In Lynn court today Galvin was ordered to pay 85 cents restitution, $5 costs of court and was given a 10-day suspended sentence in the House of Correction. He was then placed on a year's probation and ordered to take the next train home.

The milk was stolen from a store doorway.

In court Judge Reeve asked Daniel why he had journeyed to Lynn.

"I came to drown my sorrows," said Galvin.

"What? In milk?" queried the jurist.

"No, but I couldn't locate anything else," Galvin said.

INGE SAYS FLAPPER OVER 21 IN AGE OF INDISCRETION

London, May 14 (INS)—The Rev. Dr. W. R. Inge, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, is opposing the flapper vote bill which would give the franchise to all women above the age of 21.

He says it would put the elections in the control of women who have reached the "age of indiscretion."

HEAVY FROSTS DAMAGE N. E. PEACH CROP

Heavy frosts in Massachusetts and Northern New England caused considerable damage to the peach crop.

Growers in the vicinity of Springfield said they would not know for another day or two whether the blossoms had been blasted by the cold snap.

Meteorologist Loveland announced that the abnormal weather which has been dulling the spirits of New Englanders is on its way out to sea. It will be succeeded by more seasonable temperature tomorrow, although the only area of hat weather is in the Southwest, where it has been raining since Saturday.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity Fair tonight and Tuesday; rising temperatures Tuesday; moderate northwest and north winds becoming southerly Tuesday.

LOWDENSPENDS $60,000, HE TESTIFIES

Washington, May 14 — Former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois has spent $60,000 in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, he told the Senate presidential funds inquiry today.

Total receipts in his campaign have been $64,700, of which he personally has contributed $13,800 to $15,000.

This sum was in sharp contrast to his 1920 campaign, when his managers reported expenditures of $414,987.

Lowden said the greater part of the fund had been contributed by two old friends: Omer N. Custer of Galesburg, Ill., and Robert D Clark, Los Angeles, formerly of Illinois.

"There is a voluntary organization in New York," Lowden said, "They did not even ask my consent. As you gentlemen know, I have not been active, have not even made a political speech, though I have been urged to do so."

OFFERS OF 1000 POUNDS FOR OCEAN FLIGHT MADE

London, May 14 (AP)—Comdr. Charles Burney, managing director of the Airship Guarantee Company, said today that no passengers would be carried by the dirigible R-100 on its inaugural flight across the Atlantic to the United States, but that passengers would be carried on the journey back to England. Several offers of 1000 pounds have been made for the trip.

Comdr Burney who is just back in England from a trip to the United States, said: "All should be ready for a flight across the Atlantic in October."

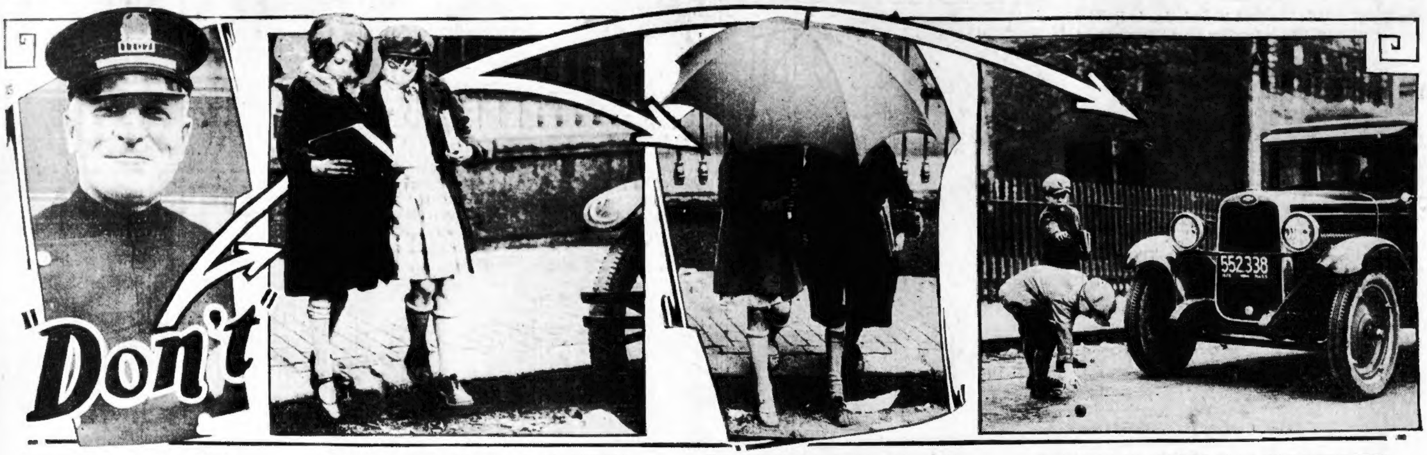
Children Re-Enact Dramas of Auto Perils as Cop's Safety Teachings Cut Toll of Death



PUPILS CALL HIM "POP"
Patrolman Wiswell W. Randolph, police safety lecturer in Boston schools, who gives his full time to instructing the children in the Do's and Dont's of the perils of street traffic.

LESSONS BORNE HOME BY TEACHINGS
"Don't try to cross the street while reading your books," says Teacher Randolph. And then he stages a demonstration to give to the lesson he wishes to drive home. By mingling a bit of comedy, he wins attention, and then he clinches his serious objective. He has made thousands of youngsters observant.

HIS SCHOLARS WON'T DO THIS
That they are not to cross streets while holding umbrellas down to shut off their view, is one of the many lessons Policeman Randolph impresses upon his pupils. Educators who have observed him in action say he has the natural "knack" of teaching.

HAZARDS OF STREET PLAY DEMONSTRATED
Poys and girls, both in school and on the playgrounds, are instructed by the pol'ceman in playtime chances they take, if on the streets and highways. Stories of accidents he knows about from his own experience are used as illustrations. The lessons are many, and the results have come in the saving of lives through avoidance of accidents.

POLICEMAN'S SCHOOL TALKS CALLED HELP FOR SAFETY

officers now instead of away from them," said Randolph.

"In my talks in the various schools I have tried to impress upon the children that their 100 per cent friend was the policeman. I tell them that when they are in trouble they must come to the policeman; that he stands ready to risk his life for them, if necessary, and that he is always eager to assist.

"My policy since I've been on the force has been to make friends with the boys and girls on my route, realizing that they are the future citizens. Instead of scooting up alleys, the children on my beat used to wait for me to say howdy and tell me how they were getting along in school. That was before I got this lecture shift, and say, it's great. When you think, as you're talking to 800 or 1000 little ones, that your words may save some of them from death or permanent injury, it puts pep into your talk.

KNOWS HIS AUDIENCE

"It isn't the easiest thing in the world to talk to kids. They're harder to reach than grown-ups, often. You've got to give it to them in their own lingo, in language they understand, and when you do that, and inject a bit of comedy now and then, you win.

"It won't do to juggle such words as 'visibility,' and 'obstruction' and 'out of control.' They wouldn't get what you were driving at, but if you tell them a car is coming crooked they know it's out of control.

I have to preach to kindergarten tots as well as those in colleges, and you've got to juggle your vocabulary—what you've got of it.

"Children's faces are wonderfully expressive. You can read their thoughts and emotions as you scan them in front of you. You get the reflex of your warnings and lessons quick and plain. It gives you a kick to see them 'drink it in.' They're hungry for advice. The school authorities and the teachers have been doing great work along safety lines. They've helped to the limit.

"I call boys and girls to the platform to illustrate my warnings and I usually impersonate the automobile or fire apparatus. I explain to them that if they go into the street in groups it increases the danger and makes it all the harder for the autoist to miss hitting some of them.

"I tell them never to cross, without halting on the curbing and glancing right and left. I tell them never to cross a street with head buried under an umbrella, or while reading a book or newspaper. HEADS UP, EYES PEELED, EARS ALERT AND ETERNAL CAUTION IS OUR SLOGAN.

"I tell them never to accept candy or any edible from any stranger in the street or a ride and never allow anyone to carry them away in a car if they are injured, until a policeman comes.

"I illustrate how little girls jump rope in the street, and I hop up and down myself, and that gets them laughing and feeling good. In order to win and impress children you've got to give them a touch of comedy and make your stuff light and attractive. Statistics don't go with young minds. You've got to key up their interest.

PICTURE TRAGEDY

"Then before the smiles have died away I suddenly switch to tragedy and tell how an automobile dashed around the corner, and how the little girls who were enjoying themselves jumping rope, screamed and scattered, and how one poor little girl didn't have time to run, and how the wheels crushed the life out of her.

"And you can see their jaws drop and detect the effect of horror in their sympathetic little hearts. I tell of a little boy, only child of a widow mother, whose skull was fractured while stealing a ride, and how I saw the crepe on his door bell and found his mother weeping in a darkened parlor.

"I tell them not to play ball or roller-skate or roll hoop or play tag in the street. I tell them there are plenty of playgrounds and open lots in most sections of the city, and that even in the congested districts there are playgrounds.

ADVISES MOTHERS

"And right here I'd like to send a message to the mothers. Some mothers have an odd idea about playgrounds. They seem to look on them as sort of charity retreats, while others think their children wouldn't be safe there.

"Well, you've heard how heartily Mayor Nichols endorsed use of the public playgrounds in order to reduce the auto hazard. Children are as well cared for in the public playgrounds as they are at home. I give talks at the playgrounds as well as in the schools, and know.

"Take it from me, all you mothers, a finer class of young women couldn't be found than as assigned to the playgrounds. They are sympathetic and experienced in handling children and see that every child is amused and protected.

"Another feature that I lay stress on in my talks to children is the traffic officer's whistle signal. It is surprising how many adults are ignorant of these signals.

"One whistle stops vehicular traffic, two blasts, is the signal for pedestrians to cross, and three blasts of the whistle stops all vehicular and foot travel to permit fire appartus to pass.

SLOGAN GIVEN

"Everyone ought to keep posted on these whistle signals. In fact, the rank and file ought to give more heed to traffic problems. They should give it deep study, as it may mean the saving of their own life or that of some member of the family.

"Education, everlasting preaching, goes for adults as well as for school children.

"HEADS UP, EYES PEELED, EARS ALERT AND ETERNAL CAUTION.

"Let that be your daily slogan."

Now that you have heard "Pop" Randolph's story let me say that I wish every city and town in New England would follow the example of Boston and assign a police officer to the post of safety lecturer. Officer Randolph and the school teachers are all effective, auxiliary agencies helping the mothers and the designated public officials whose duty it is to enforce the law, in the great work of making the highways safer.

$150.00 Offered for Safety Don'ts

The Boston Evening American is offering 78 cash prizes for the most effective sets of ten "Mothers' Safety Don'ts" to guard children from the auto peril.

The first prize will be $50, second $15, third $10 and there will be 75 one dollar prizes.

Awards will be made on common sense, practical views, rather than for literary effort.

The judges are Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, wife of the governor; Capt. George A. Parker, registrar of motor vehicles, Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and Assistant Superintendent Augustine L. Rafter of the Boston public schools.

Kindly write your "Don'ts" on a separate sheet, using one side of the paper. In your letter state number of children and ages. Write legibly and include name and address. Direct letters to Editor Mothers' Safety Don'ts, Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.

Write early. Remember the contest is already under way. We want to hear from all the mothers.

APPROVE PROBE OF COUZENS TAX LEVY

Washington, May 14 (INS)—The LaFollette resolution, authorizing a Senate investigation into the circumstances surrounding the action of the Treasury Department in levying a $10,000,000 additional tax assessment against Senator James Couzens (R) of Michigan was approved today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The tax, involving the sale of Ford motor stock, was levied several years ago at the height of a row between Couzens and Secretary of Treasury Mellon. The board of tax appeals ruled recently that Couzens need not pay the tax.

FIRE MENACES SCITUATE FOR FOUR HOURS

Concord, N. H., May 14 (AP)—With the reporting of additional forest fires in New Hampshire, Governor Huntley N. Spaulding is expected to issue an order closing all woods. He conferred today with oficials of the fish and game department and the forestry department and was informed that the situation was becoming serious. So far as is known, no homes have been destroyed.

The village of Scituate Harbor was threatened for nearly four hours and 40 acres of woodland in Hingham were swept by fire today while firemen and volunteers in many parts of the State were battling woods fires.

The Scituate harbor fire started behind the town hall and spread over an area three miles square before it was under control. Among the places saved was the residence of C. M. Wagner, one of the show places of that section of the South Shore.

TWO FIRE CHIEFS.

Fire Chiefs Hunt of Weymouth and Brown of Hingham were at Scituate helping direct the fight against the flames, the latter going direct from hours of battling a similar pine woods blaze in Hingham.

In most of the districts the firefighters were able to check the advance of the flames, but in several communities the fires are still raging.

Led by the fire departments of Lynn and Lynnfield and Boy Scouts more than 600 citizens are fighting a woods fire which has already destroyed a Boy Scout camp and threatened many other camps in the section bounded by the Newburyport turnpike, Lynnfield st. and Walden Pond.

At Marlboro firemen and their assistants are watching for further outbreaks of fire in the wooded section of 200 acres which has been burnt over, five times the flames starting up after the fighters thought them extinguished.

100 ACRES SWEPT

In Wendell, fire swept through 100 acres of woodland, and help was summond from the State Forest Patrol at Westfield, and also from New Salem, Athol, Erving and Winchendon.

The fire started on the property of P. W. Whelpley, town clerk of Wendell.

Across the Massachusetts-New Hampshire line at Mason, N. H., a force of 100 men and boys are struggling to keep back the flames, which threaten acres of Massachusetts woodland.

Two hundred acres adjoining the Henry Ford property in Sudbury were laid waste by flames, which threatened for a time the old Wayside Inn, Ford's own engine company preventing damage to this historic structure.

While the sky over Massachusetts was clouded with smoke from the various blazes the thickest and blackest pall was sent up from the dump of the Hood Rubber Company in East Watertown, the burning rubber releasing an acrid smell that reached for miles.

INQUEST ON DEATH OF JOHN SAVAGE TO BE HELD

It was definitely decided today to hold an inquest into the death of John Savage, 23, of Northeast Harbor, Me., whose death in a house on Holland st., Somerville, on the night of April 7 wa sreported a suicide by the medical examiner. Judge Sturtevant of Somerville court has ordered police to arrange the date with Associate Justice Ralph M. Smith.

He acted as a result of a letter from Dist.-Atty. Bushnell, who desires an inquest to satisfy Savage's father who does not believe his son was a suicide.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Auto Fatalities in State During Week Total 15

Fifteen was the toll of death by motor accident in Massachusetts during the week, according to the statistics compiled by the office of Registrar of Motor Vehicles Parker.

This figure is seven more than during the week preceding, and four more than during the same period a year ago.

There was not a death during the week within the city limits of Boston.

More of the victims were riding in automobiles than were pedestrians.

RESCUED IN FIRE FIGHT AT SEA

Still suffering from the effects of their battle with a fire at sea, Capt. Joseph Lechel and 15 members of the crew of the ill-fated French fisherman Marie Edmee, were brought to a Chelsea wharf on the Swedish freighter Etna, with coal from Fowey, England.

The rescued men, few of whom speak any English, had a thrilling tale to tell of a zenzine explosion aboard their craft on the fishing grounds off Newfoundland, when one of the crew was killed and the three-masted schooner burst into flames.

The schooner, hailing from Fecamp, France, had been fishing only a short time when Francois Arquentin, 32-year-old member of the crew, scratched a match on the benzine tank.

There was a tremendous explosion, accompanied by a burst of flame, in which Arquentin disappeared, and no trace of him was seen again. The schooner was soon burning fiercely, and 17 of the crew of 34 took to the boats, being picked up by the Floro and taken to St. Malo, France.

The others with the skipper and their dog mascot, Poo Poo, stuck to the vessel and fought the flames for three hours, when they realized their fight was hopeless. They were about to abandon the schooner when the Etna appeared and took them off.

INTRODUCES WIFE TO "HIS GIRL"; SUED FOR $10,000

Waterbury, Ct., May 14 (AP)—Within a few hours after he said "meet the missus," or words to that affect today, Arthur J. Lemeroux was named defendant in a $10,000 breach of promise suit filed by Miss Florence E. Cunningham. Miss Cunningham was arranging the furniture in the new home purchased by her fiance, when he walked in accompanied by a woman whom he introduced as Mrs. Lemeroux. The suit was entered soon after.

U. S. TREATY DRAFT FALLS SHORT OF BRITISH PLAN

London, May 14 (AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, told the House of Commons today that the draft arbitration treaty to replace the Anglo-American treaty of 1908, and which has been communicated by the United States Government, did not in all respects meet the requirements of the British government. In view of the complexity of the questions involved and the necessity for consulting the dominions, he said that further time would be required before a decision could be reached and the proposal answered.

Berlin, May 14—More than 100 persons were arrested following clashes between left and right wing extremists, meeting for the last Sunday before the elections.

LEWIS REWEDS IN LONDON OFFICE

London, May 14—Far from the "Babbits" of his satirical pen, Sinclair Lewis, American novelist, and Dorothy Thompson, newspaper reporter, were married today in a quiet room just off London's main street.

Both Lewis and Miss Thompson had been married and divorced before. Mrs. Sinclair Lewis obtained a divorce from the novelist in Reno, Nevada, just a few weeks ago. Under the regulations of the Church of England divorced persons cannot be married in church property.

The only witness to the ceremony which was held in the registrar's office in Henrietta st., were Jonathan Cape, the bridegroom's English publisher, Mrs. Cape and a clerk.

Lewis and his bride plan to leave London Thursday or Friday for a motor honeymoon in the remote parts of northern England. They intend to return to the United States in August "to settle down on some quiet little farm, preferably in New England," Lewis explained.

More than a score of reporters and photographers waited outside during the ceremony. Some of the photographers had unlimbered their batteries inside the office before the couple arrived, but they were banished and the wedding took place before a row of empty tripods.

The honeymoon will take Lewis and his bride into unfrequented paths far from the usual tourist route and there the writer will seek material for a novel of English country folk.

Lewis today regretted he would have to explode the fable that he first met Miss Tompson during an airplane trip from Vienna to "cover" the disorders there last year. "It's such a good story it ought to be true," he grinned. "But we met in the Foreign Office in Berlin, and about that story that I proposed by drawing a picture of a little home—well, I proposed so many times I can't remember how it was done."

Recalling that he has never owned a home of his own, Lewis said he expected to buy a farm in the United States, where he would have a tranquil place to write.

CREW SAVED AS FISHING BOAT BLOWS UP

Portsmouth, N. H., May 14—Explosion of the craft's gasoline tank nearly snuffed out the lives of the three composing the crew of the Gloucester fishing boat 931-C three miles southeast of Boone Island, it was learned today.

The three men, Capt. Ancelo Betolin of Commercial st., Gloucester, and Arthur Posatatio and John Ascola were just about to get into their 30-foot dory for a last haul when the blast occurred, blowing the dory and occupants into the water.

Within a minute the fishing boat sank, and the crew began rowing. They rowed for more than three hours before being sighted by men of the Appledore Island, Isle of Shoals, Coast Guard station. The Coast Guards towed the dory and men 11 miles to the station.

Capt. Betolin, owner of the fishing boat, said it was nearly new and was valued at $5000. Also there were between 7000 and 8000 fish aboard.

Gloucester was communicated with today and a boat was started for the Coast Guard station to take the three men back home.

4 ROXBURY YOUTHS HELD IN AUTO THEFT

Charged with larceny of an automobile, four Roxbury youths were held in high bail for grand jury action when arraigned today in Roxbury court. They are Ray Cosgrove of Waverly st. and William Nason of Center st., held in $5000 bail each, and John H. Rockwood of Vernon st. and George H. Owen of Akron st., $2000 each.

They were caught after a chase by Sergt. Donovan and Patrolman McCall of Roxbury Crossing division. The automobile belongs to Joseph L. Rogers of Oak ter.

DORCHESTER MAN HELD ON THREE AUTO CHARGES

James H. Maloney of Eastman st., Dorchester, was arrested today on three automobile charges as a result of an accident on Columbia rd. railroad bridge, in which Mrs. Maud Ham of Gardner st., East Milton, was injured. The car in which she was riding was driven by her husband, Allen W. Ham.

The driver of the other car fled. The car is registered in Maloney's name, police say, and this caused his arrest. The case was continued one week in South Boston District Court, where he pleaded not guilty.

A Story of Gay Life at Harvard

Gay Leonard, young, beautiful, spoiled darling of fortune, is loved by Alan Pomeroy, an athletic, worthwhile, young man. She is fascinated by Jerry Davis, of questionable reputation, and has been forbidden by her family to see him. Jerry meets Dolly Quinn, a shop girl by day and cabaret hostess in the evening. Gay calls him up, tells her inquisitive mother it is Alan she has been talking to and is going to meet him. Later Alan calls up and Mrs. Leonard learns that Gay has gone to Jerry's rooms and in a panic phones her husband. Gay finds another girl and a man with Jerry. The man relates Jerry's meeting with Dolly Quinn. After a good many drinks Jerry crushes Gay to him. She rallies him about the dance hall girl and he admits he has never even tried to kiss her. Gay's father tells Jerry what he thinks of him and the family takes Gay South. Dolly, through Jerry's good offices, gets a job as theater usher. She starts to save $200 and refuses to take a penny from Jerry. Dolly makes a friend of Nick Standish, a reporter. Jerry asks Dolly if she is going to marry Nick.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 13

FOR as long as it takes to snap fingers Dolly was rigid, blank as she pondered Jerry's question as to whether she was going to marry Nick. Then she relaxed, and laughter trilled from her throat. "Of course not! Why, you crazy, he's married already! I've told you that. And anyway—" She peered back over her shoulder, and changed her tone. "But do go on, Jerry. We're holding up at least ten cars, and they're furious."

Both were silent for many blocks thereafter.

"Whatever made you think of such a thing?" Dolly queried curiously at last.

"I don't know. My natural pessimism, I suppose. It would be—the very worst thing that could happen—to me."

He said this so low that Dolly fancied she must have misunderstood him. She looked up quickly, and finding his profile inscrutable and his eyes busily watchful of cops and cross streets, she was sure she had.

"No," she said easily, relieved, "no wedding bells. Nothing like that for years and years and years. It's—" She emitted a little half-rueful chuckle. "I was going to make it a great story, Jerry, but you spoiled it by thinking it was so much more important than it is! So I'll just tell you. The paper Nick Standish works for—that's the Star—held a contest to find five girls to send down to Atlantic City in September for that National Beauty Pageant they have.

"You know, where they choose a Miss America every year? Well, Nick persuaded me to enter, and I did, along with loads of others. And they picked out a Miss Greater New York and a Miss Manhattan and a Miss Bronx and a Miss Brooklyn and a Miss Coney Island, all to be sent down from here by the star—and I'm the Miss Manhattan!" Dolly's voice became jubilant again. "There! What do you think of that?"

They had entered the Park by this time and were slipping along one of its cool, curved, rustic thoroughfares. It was dim in the Park after Broadway and the glare of Columbus Circle. Other cars stole by them, dark bulky ghosts with phosphorescent eyes. "Who-eee!" they sighed as they passed.

"I think it's—remarkable news," said Jerry Davis.

Dolly was too engrossed in her tale to analyze this answer or to note any lack in it. She hardly heard it. "I started to tell you when I first went into the thing," she resumed, "and then I thought I wouldn't till afterwards. There's something so conceited about entering a beauty contest—I thought you'd think I was an awful fool. I didn't have any idea I'd win. Honestly, Jerry, I didn't have any idea I had a chance of winning! It was all sort of a joke between Nick and me. And when they told me I'd been chosen—" she shook her head, smiling mistily at the windshield—"you could have floored me with your little finger. I can't quite believe it, even yet."

She turned sideways in her seat and drew her knees up, smoothing her brief skirt modestly over them. "And now!" she crowed. "Imagine! I get a week at Atlantic City, where I've never been, and stay at one of the very best hotels, and my expenses are all paid, and I get a lot of wonderful new clothes that I can keep afterward! And the store will give me time off on full—fer-ry!"

"I'm sorry," he said gruffly.

Dolly righted herself and sat vary still, round alarmed eyes searching his face. "Jerry," she said, "I—are you angry? You are angry. Oh, why?—when I thought you'd be so glad for me!"

They were well into the Park now. Darkness lay over them. Darkness and quiet. Only the bright rim of a tall building, the marching words of an electric sign across the sky, the vague and distant surf-like monotone, betokened a city beyond these dim green woods.

Jerry slouched motionless at the wheel. His chin dug his chest, his unseeing eyes were fixed on the dashboard where a dozen little dials and disks winked, captive under glass. He still held the wheel with both hands; in the glow from the dashboard light his knuckles showed strained and yellow.

He spoke slowly. "Will you—do something for me, Dolly?"

"Of course, if I can."

"Will you give up this—this idea?"

"You mean not go?"

STRICT CONTROL URGED FOR MAKERS OF CANDY

Dr. P. H. Mullowney

Director of Hearst Health Laboratory

Criticism of a faulty condition in certain phases of the candy business is lacking in substantial quality unless it contains elements of corrective suggestions. It will always be the purpose of these articles to assist in bringing about conditions that will re-act in favor of the public health.

So that whenever an evil practice is observed and noted, some allusion will be made to possible remedies, unless the mere statement of the wrong is a sufficient indictment calling for redless.

In a previous article severe mention was made of certain methods of purveying candy of an unwholesome nature, and attention was paid particularly to reworked candy. That is candy that has been too long in stock, stale, or otherwise contaminated. It is easy to imagine in what condition candy could be after remaining on shelves for weeks, exposed to dirt, dust and flies.

Nevertheless, it is sometimes returned for credit and reaches the candy reworker and his caldron in time. Nor is it all candy that goes into the melting pot. Now there is a condition that calls for correction and you may well ask, what is going to be done about it.

The short and true answer to that question is that all candy manufacturers should be licensed and subject to strict regulation. Think of what could be done in a regulatory way, if all of these places were put under a health department license.

The reworking of insanitary candy could be attended to by adequate rules that would forbid the taking back of candy from retail stores except by permission of the health authorities. This permission could be granted only in the case of wrapped, or boxed candies, free from worm infestation and wholesome and fit for food.

Supervision of reworked candy is only one small advantage of a licensing system. With such a weapon as power to refuse or to revoke a license, how the authorities could insist on the highest possible standard of cleanliness in the factory. You may be sure that no dirty cellar, or dingy room would find favor

2 DRUG ADDICT FARMS O. K.'D IN COMMITTEE

Washington, May 14 (INS)—The "attempted enforcement of prohibition" has contributed in a large measure to the 400 per cent increase in the prison population of the United States since 1915, the House Judiciary Committee declared today in reporting the Porter bill to establish two federal narcotic farms to cure drug addicts.

Convictions in federal courts have multiplied four times during the period, wit hthe result that federal prisons are greatly overcrowded, the report said.

"This picture of overcrowding is a sad one to contemplate," the report added. "To pack men as though they were animals is a brutal manner of treatment even for convicts."

The committee said conditions are particularly bad at Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil Island Prisons.

Location of the farms would be left to the Treasury Department. Addict scan voluntarily apply for admission to th efarms.

"Increase in crime in its most dangerous character is frequently traced to the addict who becomes the author and perpetrator of crimes of violence," said the report.

Here's Fine Recipe

PRIZE DEVIL'S FOOD calls for ½ c. butter or substitute, 2 c. light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2¼ c. cake flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ c. sour milk, ½ c. boiling water, 1 tsp. soda, 1½ squares chocolate, melted (or ⅓ c cocoa), 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 tsp. baking powder.

Cream shortening, add 1 c. sugar gradually, creaming mixture thoroughly. Beat eggs until light, add the other c. of sugar to the eggs, mixing well. Add this egg mixture to the creamed shortening and sugar and beat hard. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, add salt and sift three times.

Then add to the first mixture alternating with the sour milk, beating batter hard after each addition of flour and milk. Into the boiling water stir the soda and the melted chocolate or cocoa, and beat into the cake mixture. Add vanilla. Bake in three layers in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.).

Spread a white icing between the layers and on top and sides of cake.

Lesson by a Chef

THE lesson in practical cookery next Wednesday in the Martha Lee Kitchen, at 2:30 p. m., will be given by Mr. Antonio Piccione, garde manger chef of the Renard Coconut Grove, one of Boston's most popular and beautiful night clubs.

Mr. Piccione is a native of Italy, where he served his apprenticeship, and has been connected with some of Boston's most prominent hotels, such as the Alden Park Manor, the American House and Hotel Brunswick.

At the Coconut Grove you are always sure of finding a friendly atmosphere, snappy entertainments, splendid music and good things to eat moderately priced and daintily served.

Among the Cocoanut Grove specialties that Mr. Piccione will prepare will be cocoanut salad, oriental salad, pineapple fantasie, lobster Coconut Grove salad and assorted sandwiches.

The lesson Wednesday is sure to be a real treat. I hope you will take this as a personal invitation to attend.

Good for Motor Lunches

For spring-time motor luncheons try pimento butter sandwiches with water-cress, which keeps crisp longer than lettuce. Cream ¼ c. butter and the 2 canned pimentos which have been forced through a puree strainer. When thoroughly blended, season with ¼ tsp. salt. Spread on whole-wheat or white bread.

For Cherry Pies

HOW long since you've enjoyed a real cherry pie? Waiting patiently for July 4 to roll around? It isn't necessary any longer, for you can buy the choicest sun-ripened cherries now all put up in glass jars, ready for pie making or your other favorite cherry desserts.

Buying cherries in this way is so convenient, for they are cooked to perfection, ready to serve alone or in pies. The fresh flavor of the orchards is unchanged, preserved by air-tight, leak-proof seal.

Think of all the staining and steaming that this saves the housewife—not to mention the ruination of her disposition—a pretty high price to pay even for cherry pie.

Glass packed fruits have long been the choice of particular American housewives, as they know that only the best quality fruits are packed in glass. It is this high quality you pay for, not the glass container.

You know you can now obtain in these sanitary glass jars delicious apricots, all kinds of berries, figs, cherries, applesauce, peaches, dates, pears, pineapple, prunes, mixed fruit for salads and cocktails.

Dried Beef With Cheese Is Great

Dried beef with cheese is a savory and inexpensive luncheon dish. Frizzle one and one-half cups dried beef in four tablespoons butter for five minutes. Add two cups canned tomatoes and one cup grated cheese.

Stir until melted. Add two eggs slightly beaten and one-fourth teaspoon kitchen bouquet. Stir until the eggs thicken. Served with baked potato and sliced fruit dessert, this affords an appetizing luncheon with minimum labor.

Try This Fine Recipe for Hermits Sometime

HERMITS—One cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 3 eggs, ½ cup sour milk, 1 level tsp. soda, ½ lb. figs, cut fine, 1 cup seeded raisins, cut fine, ½ tsp. ground cloves, ⅓ lb. chopped walnuts, 2 tsp. ground cinnamon, 3 cups flour, 3 tsp. vanilla. Cream the butter and sugar. Add the eggs, sour milk and the soda dissolved in a little milk. Then add the remaining ingredients in the order given.

Balance in the Diet

ONE of the mistakes made by the army of would-be-thins is cutting breakfast down to a mere cup of coffee and perhaps half a grapefruit. Physicians are warning us against this practice.

They remind us that the body is an engine, and food its fuel, and no good engine should be expected to do a morning's work without adequate fuel.

However, it is in choosing the kind of fuel that you will use that can guard against extra pounds of too, too solid flesh.

The world is full of good things to eat, and fuel for the human furnace is supplied in vast abundance and variety. Some of this fuel food is composed largely of fat making materials. Some of it makes muscle and bone, some of it supplies energy and heat without making tissue.

Each person is his own fireman and in 99 cases out of 100 selects his food without the slightest regard to its fuel value. Our energy, our bodily welfare, our ability to do things and think things and enjoy things, are all a matter of nutrition. Realizing this, our persistent ignorance of food values is amazing.

And that is the reason the fat man goes right on being fat and the woman who hobbles along with skin tightly stretched over chunks of fatty tissues goes right on accumulating more flesh. A famous writer has said that "God enveloped man's body in a skin to see how tight he could stretch it without bursting."

The way to reduce fat is to eat less fat-making foods. There is no other safe, sane or healthy way. Over weight is not only due to over eating, it is nearly always due to eating in excess of the foods that are rich in carbohydrates and fat. I am suggesting for you today, a breakfast which will not only keep your engine hitting on every cylinder until 12 noon, but will not exceed your calorie limit.

First, you'll see I've suggested a peppy cereal food, rich in iron, lime and other mineral salts. You can literally help yourself to health via this delicious cereal. It is equally appetizing served with milk or cream and sugar, with honey, or fresh or preserved fruits and their juices.

It contains all the valuable food elements of whole wheat and is a pleasing, wholesome, regulating wheat food. Children love this cereal and it is as good for them as it is for the grown folks. Served with crushed strawberries and cream it is a dish for the gods.

Two carefully scrambled eggs, a slice or two of crisp toast and a cup of perfect coffee or cocoa will balance this ideal breakfast.

The Watch Tower

Here's a menu for a day using the markets' best buys:

BREAKFAST
Stewed Prunes and Apricots
Corn Flakes and Milk or Cream
Toast and Jam
Coffee or Milk

LUNCHEON OR SUPPER
Scrambled Eggs
Whole Wheat Biscuit
Rhubarb Sauce and Sponge Cake

DINNER
Baked Ham
Fried Parsnips
Baked Potato
Cucumber and Tomato Salad
Lemon Pie

Scrambled eggs are best made in a double boiler. For a small family, beat 4 eggs slightly and add ½ tsp. of salt, a dash of pepper and 1-3 cup milk. Melt 2 tsp. of butter in the top part of a double boiler, over hot water, and pour in the egg mixture. Cook until creamy, stirring and scraping from the bottom and side of the boiler.

Tomatoes Creole

FOR creole tomatoes cut 6 tomatoes in half crosswise. Place in a baking dish and cover with a small onion and a green pepper, both chopped fine. Dot with 2 tbsps. butter.

Add ¼ c. hot water and bake until the tomatoes are tender. Place on a serving dish and make a sauce in this way. Melt 2 tbsps. butter in a saucepan.

Stir in 2 tbsps. flour and pour in the liquid from the baked tomatoes as well as a cup of evaporated milk, adding a little salt if necessary. Cook until it thickens and pour over the tomatoes.

Measurements

All measurements for all materials called for in Martha Lee recipes are level.

The standard measuring cup holds one-half pint and is divided into fourths and thirds.

Sift all flour before measuring and then fill the cup by spoonfuls from the bowl in which it was sifted.

To make level measurements fill the cup or spoon and scrape off excess with the back of the knife.

Ah! A good hand at last!

...and now comes the best hand of the evening... Sunshine Chocolate Sprinkles. Aces, all aces! Every thoughtful hostess knows them.

Here's how fine they are: Sunshine Bakers take a little cookie-cake, pile it high with creamy marshmallow and then shower it with those delicious little chocolate sprinkles.

What a treat for your guests! ... And how easy to serve!

At your Grocer's!

Sunshine CHOCOLATE SPRINKLES

LOOSE-WILES BISCUIT CO.

"Sunshine"—u [illegible] saying whenever you want biscuits.

The flavor wins!

It has won more people to Kellogg's Corn Flakes ★ than to any other ready-to-eat cereal. Flavor and matchless crispness! Just because they taste so good—that's why more than 11,000,000 people demand Kellogg's each day. And they are, by far, the largest-selling corn flakes!

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

★ Kellogg's are the original! The world's most popular corn flakes! Their wonder-flavor and crispness just can't be copied!

Serve for lunch or dinner as well as breakfast. Fine for the kiddies' evening meal. Never tough-thick—but extra crisp. Always easy to digest.

Order at hotels, restaurants, cafeterias. On dining-cars. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Oven-fresh in the waxtite inner-sealed wrapper.

JIMMY McLARNIN CAN BE REAL RING IDOL

JIMMY McLARNIN, the tough Irishman from the coast who fights Sammy Mandell for the lightweight crown Thursday evening, is one of the most picturesque young men the boxing game has been blessed with since the converted rod rider, Dempsey, came scowling into the Toledo ring, with a week's growth of beard masking his face, and toppled the mountainous Jess Willard. Jimmy has the two great essentials for boxing success—love of fight, which is sometimes called courage, and a nerve-paralyzing punch.

Nick Flatley

The gang will aways trail the youth who carries dynamite in his gloves. Makes no difference how old or beaten he may be. The chance of the kayo wallop will bring the boys past the ticket windows. The aforementioned Dempsey is proof of that. He can draw a million-dollar house anywhere, though the customers know he will probably get a pasting. The mere fact that he might land a lethal lick furnishes the thrill element that makes professional sport.

Young Mister McLarnin came out of the West more or less heralded and sung. He had flattened a lot of the lightweights along the coast, where the press agents are not bashful, and the Eastern promoters were willing to risk good money to bring him here. They were skeptical, though. Wonders from the far parts usually flop.

Jimmy came to New York and was matched with Sid Terris, a clever, hard-boiled bird who had little aspirations of his own. McLarnin should have been frightened when he stepped in the ring. But he wasn't. The teribile Terris leaped up at the gong and proceeded to flit about like a butterfly that had been browsing on a juniper bush.

Mister McLarnin watched a couple of flits and then set himself. As the terrible Terris flitted his third flit, Jimmy uncorked a punch. It landed on the Terris button and Sid went to sleep like an ether victim. It was almost as rapid and spectacular as the coup-de-grace that Jack Sharkey pinned on Mons. Delaney not so long since.

That established young Mister McLarnin as a fighter and made a lot of people think he would pick up the title without bother. But Sammy Mandell is a clever, game and exceedingly shrewd boxer. He knows his onions and defenses, even though he hasn't fought for a long, long while.

The row between Jimmy and Sammy should give the boys something to talk about between scoffs at the next heavy war.

MOST HARVARD GRADS WOULD PREFER A BIGGER FOOTBALL TEAM TO A LARGER STADIUM.

The melancholy days have come,
The saddest of the spring,
When scribes find out that rookie stars
Can't do a blessed thing.

IMPOSSIBLE JUST DUCK SOUP FOR HAGEN

WALTER HAGEN'S name will be mentioned always when the boys get to talking about the great competitors in any line of sport. There never has been a more courageous, confident banner bearer, though you put a magnifying glass on all the annals.

A fictionist, putting the Hagen touch on his stuff, would be hooted out of any editor's office. Walter has the faculty of doing the things that simply can't be done. His third triumph in the British open was far and away the greatest of all his stunts. Two weeks before the big test, The Haig stepped off a liner and was licked fearfully by Archie Compston. That beating would have discouraged anybody except The Haig.

Walter knew it was coming. He had been working in the movies most of the winter. He hadn't touched a golf club for months. And a sea trip isn't conductive rhythym and steady nerves. He took his beating with a grin, and then made up that remarkable mind of his.

In a two weeks stretch he willed himself into physical and mental shape for the toughest of all athletic tests. Any golfer is lucky to win an open title—he has to be. There's something more than luck, though, when a chap snatches the same one three times, especially when the last comes after a lapse from the practise that is so essential to the ordinary golfer.

Hagen is one of those prodigies, like Babe Ruth. Physical laws are pushed aside by the strength of the desire to cling to the crest. Until Walter hangs up his clubs, no crown is safe. Just as no home run hitter can hope to be supreme as long as the Babe continues on his apparently endless parade.

HATS OFF TO BILL CARRIGAN. THE RED SOX ARE ONLY A SINGLE GAME AWAY FROM THE TOP OF THE SECOND DIVISION.

WHOLE COUNTRY CHEERING FOR GLENNA

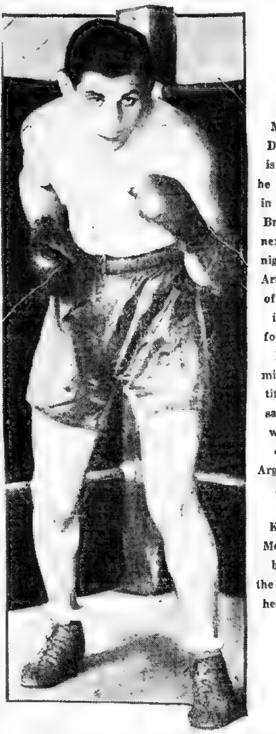
Glenna Collett, greatest of all the girl golfers developed in this country, has a chance today to win one of the rare titles that have not been owned by an American at some time or other.

American girls have tried to bring the British title back to these parts, but none has succeeded to date. Miss Glenna has the game and the courage adapted to English courses and tournaments.

In an age where championships are flitting regularly from over there to here, as you might say, it would seem to be time for that women's golf coronet to make the trip. A win for Miss Glenna would be just as popular in these United States as a Dempsey comeback, or something of the sort.

Red Sox Battle for Fifth Place

SEEKS N. E. TITLE



George Manolian, Dorchester, is shown as he will appear in the ring at Braves Field next Monday night against Arthur Flynn of Lawrence in a bout for the New England middleweight title. In the same show, which will open the Argonne A. A. summer season, Kirby and Mendes will battle for the N. E. light-heavyweight title.

Argonne Battlers Post Forfeits

Adopting a plan which will prevent any eleventh-hour hitches in the fistic offerings of the Argonne A. A. throughout the summer season at Braves Field, Matchmaker Eddie Mack has insisted that all his feature fighters post forfeits for weight and appearance and the principals in the double 10-round championship events on the card for Monday night, May 21, have agreed to this ironclad legislation.

While Arthur Flynn of Lawrence and George "Wan" Manolian of Dorchester posted $500 forfeits to make the middleweight limit of 160 pounds in their title encounter, it was not until this morning that Jimmy Mendez of New Bedford and Tom Kirby of Roxbury agreed to abide by the ruling.

Dan Carroll, manager of Kirby, posted $500 this morning and Dave Luminarsky of New Bedford, manager of Mendez, made a special trip to the Hub to post his forfeit. Kirby and Mendez will battle it out for the New England light heavyweight title in a bout which should abound in thrills and hard punching according to the rank and file of the game.

In meeting Kirby, Mendez, only out of the amateur ranks a little more than a year, gets his first real shot at fistic fame. In New Bedford Mendez is regarded as unbeatable. He has scored so many knockouts and so many easy victories that the Whalers regard this popular Portuguese star as one of the outstanding light-heavyweights in the boxing game.

Only once before has Mendez appeared as a pro in a Boston ring. On that occasion he scored an easy knockout. Hub fans however recall his conquests in the N. E. championships a year ago when he knocked out every opponent he faced in the tournament. Mendez immediately turned pro after winning the amateur crown and he has developed into a brilliant punching master.

Luminansky who piloted Chick Suggs to the top of the fistic pile now predicts that Mendez, not only will win from Kirby, but will also knock him out.

Kirby, however with bouts against Tommy Loughran the champion, and Young Stribling behind him has little to fear from the hard-hitting New Bedford boxer. Then, too, Kirby has scored recent victories over George [illegible], Allentown Joe Gans, [illegible], Lou Bogash, Billy Vidabeck, Lew Chester and Tommy [illegible].

Maloney and "Strib" Are Signed by Mack

Matchmaker Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. has signed up for two feature boxing attractions to be held at Braves Field in the near future.

Mack has signed Jim Maloney of South Boston to battle Jack de Mave of New Jersey on the night of May 28 in a 10-round go. On June 4 W. L. "Young" Stribling will make his first appearance here for some time meeting either Arthur Flynn of Lawrence or Tom Kirby of Roxbury.

Stribling is coming to Boston from Macon, Ga., by airplane. It is the intention of Stribling to hop off from his Georgia home in the family [illegible] and fly to Boston, landing at the East Boston airport.

Clark Battles Kaufman at Lynn

Buddy Clark, the Salem welter will be battling his way to reverse the verdict tonight when he meets Pinkie Kaufman of Hartford for the second time in the feature bout of the Crescent A. C. in Lynn.

Kaufman handed Clark right to the jaw in Holyoke three weeks which sent the Salem boy to slumberland in the seventh round, and since that day he has been gunning for the Hartford lad for a return match.

[illegible] what a good stretch does for a cat or dog. Limbering and stretching every muscle, starting up circulation, feeding the skin tissue with oxygen. Fat never clings to a well exercised muscle, nor is it emaciated.

If you are very young and short, plenty of stretching exercises each day may add an inch to your [illegible], and if you are tall they will give you a grace and poise to carry your height well. Stretching the muscles systematically keeps them supple and suppleness is slimness and grace.

There are ever so many good stretching and twisting exercises. Among the best—it should be part of everyone's daily regime—is the [illegible] consists of [illegible] the floor with the knees unbent. If you [illegible] this exercise accurately [illegible] times every day you will never [illegible] thick waist or abdomen [illegible] When you drop your handkerchief or wish to pick up a pin, do so without bending your knees. The habit will help you keep limber and slender.

Here's another equally effectual exercise for stretching the muscles, especially those of the waist, hips and back. Stand straight with your weight over the balls of your feet. Raise your arms straight up, hugging them close to your head, and lock your fingers high over your head. Now circle five times to the left, five times to the right, moving only from your waist, keeping your arms close to your head, hands clasped. Do this exercise with steady swinging rhythm.

At this time of year, outdoors calls to us. It is well to heed that call to good health and fun. Whatever your activities may be, plenty of fresh air, sleep, well-balanced food and normal exercise of all the muscles every day should keep you fresh as a May morning every day of the year.

Dr. Reed on the Care of Cows

By CHAS. A. L. REED, Sr. [illegible]
Former President of the American Medical Association.

DO you ever take the trouble to inquire how the cows from which your milk is derived are kept? Or do you just accept the milk as delivered and give it to your baby without a thought?

You can't expect to have pure milk from diseased cows or clean milk from filthy cows. You therefore can't expect milk that comes from diseased or filthy sources to be wholesome for food purposes. The whole uestion of clean and decent milk is, consequently, in the first instance, one of the care of the cows that give the milk.

The proper environment for cattle is an open and wide field and not the eight hundred cubi feet of air space which each cow is supposed to get in the shed and which it often does not get. I say this because the now usual municipal orders concerning space, light and ventilation are easily evaded and anyway are of very little use.

It is only through open-air life and healthier working conditions that tuberculosis is being conquered among human beings. Only these measures will drive it away from cattle.

The cowshed is the breeding place of germs, the open air is their mortuary.

By open aid pasturing the labors of the dairy workers would be greatly diminished. Since there would be no cowsheds to clean and no grooming necessary, and since much less fodder would have to be provided, all they would have to do would be to wash the udders and milk the cows.

Besides this, the absence of dirty work would make the workers more cleanly in their persons. Although it cannot be denied that an occasional case of tuberculosis is found even in cattle kept entirely out of doors, the disease would disappear in a few years if tuberculosis cattle were prevented from breeding.

According to Robertson, an English writer, in Liverpool during 19[illegible], 45 per cent of the cows slaughtered showed signs of tuberculosis. Of bulls only 4 per cent were affected, of heifers only 5 per cent and of calves only 2 per cent. The reason he assigns for this disparity is that cows are kept indoors while the others live in the open.

It is not true, we are reliably informed, that stall fed cows give more milk than those kept in the fields. In the cowsheds of Liverpool, according to this same authority, the average yield is two gallons per day. In Hampshire, where cows live almost entirely in the open, the yield is from two to four gallons and Guernsey cows give from two to two and a half gallons. Even if stalled fed cows gave more their milk could not compare in quality with that of pastured cows.

There is no comparison, moreover, between the cost of producing milk from open air cows than from stall-fed cows, which have to be cleaned, fed and attended in addition to the rents and upkeep of the stalls.

"You Said It, Marceline"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

SO men REALLY like thin girls better than fat ones, and do they find protruding BONES more agreeable than protruding FLESH, or do women go to all the trouble of getting SLIM and keeping trim just to please their own esthetic tastes?

A smart woman once said that we might as well be DEAD as out of style. That may be, but there does not seem to be any particular MERIT in nearly killing oneself in order to be in style.

Women are WONDERFUL creatures. To be ASKED to starve to death, or FORCED to starve to death, would OFFEND their sensibilities, this would seem stupid, FUTILE, ridiculous in this age of efficiency. Yet thousands GLADLY STARVE themselves to live fashionably. They are willing and self-elected MARTYRS to a great cause—the cause of BEAUTY.

Are they then to be condemned, CONDOLED or congratulated?

Who STARTED this stove pipe fashion? From where did it come, this big idea of making women appear REVERSIBLE so that we have to look at their HEADS or their FEET to find out whether they are going or coming?

America was responsible! This country started the fashion for SLIM and slender woman. These United States set the new STANDARD of beauty, and Paris and other cities promptly endeavored to get themselves in line. A STRAIGHT line, of course. It was the thing to do, or rather to LOOK; and, women who formerly used to get busy with rolling pins, and bake for the family, suddenly began to give up the PASTRY, and use their rolling pins on their "OUTSIDES."

"Women," some PHILOSOPHER once said, "are the CHAMELEONS of life, who reflect at all times the NEEDS and desires of men."

I think it would be safe to assume that the AMERICAN woman is less a chameleon than any. Yet, even so this BOYISH form was brought about by the men, for the women of each country collectively are what the men of the country ADMIRE most.

English women are not smart dressers, because the men do not ASK smartness of them. They want SENSIBLE pals. French women are what they are, alluring, FEMININE, because the Frenchman demands charm.

American women are what they are today—the BEST GROOMED nation in the world, the smartest dressers—because the American man wants YOUTH and BEAUTY.

This is a young country. YOUNG MEN want young women, or at least young looking women. The slender, boyish figure in a girl is considered the APEX of sex appeal. Consequently, finding THAT most admired girls of all ages APED the uniformed form. Usually without knowing WHY—for that is a weakness in the STATES, to copy without knowing what is back of the ORIGINAL.

Fads and Fancies

The Vogue for Violet for evening gowns must be accorded respectful recognition, for this soft shade is being urged by leading French authorities. In satin, chiffon or tulle dinner or dance frocks in violet colorings are most fashionable, and flattering.

Judging books by bindings is far from a fair test, but it is all very well to judge Shantung sports frocks that way. The natural color silk two-piece models derive their smartness from their vividly colored bindings of silk or silk braid that outline notched collars, cuffs, pockets and belts.

Chintz Becomes Chic for jackets and broad shirt borders on pleated frocks of printed handkerchief linen. This odd type of summer ensemble presents an entirely new use for chintz, which must be glazed and of solid tone.

CHAPTER 24

M'BALWAMI, my unkle Apaque as he was called was about the most intelligent savage I ever came in touch with.

He was a king in his own right and that he really was fond of me and would have given his life for me at any time goes without saying, and being of a romantic nature I would have done the same for him.

Nobody in the world ever feels this kind of love only two men surrounded continually by danger night and day really can understand what it means when you meet.

Apaque's delight was to watch me muster my little army of 40 rifles, these men I had togged up in old 17th lancer jackets and caps.

As I was well up in drill which I learnt at college I took a great pride in making my little army efficient. Clean weapons I insisted on. The old Chief would continually shout Va bwe' well done as I would give the orders in English.

We arrived at [illegible] at Almang early one morning a[illegible] home once more. The overland mail had just arrived so that I had the great pleasure of reading home news and the doings of my friend little Peru. We were all busy reading when the news came that one of the missionary boys had been captured and was even now on his way to execution as he had been preaching against the Isoga of a nearby village.

The doctor in charge of the American mission heard of this happening just in time to save the poor boy. Gathering his lads together, the brave doctor rushed to the village where the boy had been imprisoned. He made one dash for the [illegible] and revolver in hand, he rescued the victim. The natives were so much taken aback by surprise that an old white man dare enter their temple that they did nothing but look surprised.

This gave the doctor time to put his boat in midstream whilst the natives fired on him from the banks as he proceeded to the Mission Station but he got away without any damage. This was a plucky deed and the doctor of that Presbyterian Mission station was a hero considered after his deed. He had saved the boy from a terrible death and had risked his life for his mission boy.

Count de Brazza the Explorer [illegible] in the spring and [illegible] The river [illegible] enough to allow a steamboat to make the trip. I left for the sea that evening there [illegible] steamboat from Gabon on which I was to pilot up river as far as our trading post at Adoningo.

'I Was Anxious to Prove My Maps and Charts Right'

The S. S. Pioneer was the first boat due to arrive at Angola and this I was to pilot up to Adoningo and then to Samba Falls on the Anjuni River. Quite a long trip and I was anxious to have the chance to prove my maps and charts all correct. I must say that our future prosperity in the Rivers all depend on those charts etc. being correct, and Sinclair also was as anxious as I was to prove them.

I had a great send off from both Herr Sc[illegible]ff and Sinclair, and although my left hand was still in a bad shape it was curing up nicely. My first stop was at my old friend's Efangnanges where I had got the Rogue Elephant. And he made us all feel quite at home, and leaving the old man I pulled out for Lake Azingo which I reached in nice time and found all well.

And after attending to what business was necessary and dispatching the overland mail I made for Nina's town. Here of course I had business of importance. The witch doctors and Nina came to the beach to meet and greet us.

Of course I told them to get ready for me at the Josh House as I wanted to make a big wish and was ready to pay for any favors I received from their ceremony and they were all more than pleased. It was not long before they announced themselves all ready.

Now was an important time for me as I intend to come away with the ruby at all hazards. I had the position of the masked fakirs at a glance. The goddess looked charming, she looked better than I had ever seen her before.

I called the headman and had him lay down the presents I had brought for Nina, himself and the other attendants, and then palmed the ruby bending low and making it appear that I was receiving a little [illegible] from my wounded left hand [illegible] I carried high [illegible] to hide the actions of my [illegible].

The ruse acted splendidly. I had the ruby in my right pocket whilst I held the imitation in my hand it all looked quite natural. The wand now passed down and my wish was granted amidst the [illegible] sounds that came from the spirits which the head man said were all pleased. And so was I.

The presents were removed and I walked away as usual to the music of the Ngomo. I felt relieved when I reached the village and was soon joined by the fakers from the Juju house. We all enjoyed ourselves and the head man and [illegible] made merry.

'They Didn't Seem to Notice The Change in the Rubies'

Nina now joined us and I gave her the dresses, shoes etc. that had been sent her by little Peru. This greatly pleased her and I chatted to her in both Mpangue and English and we were soon the best of friends all round. The old man was especially thankful and so were all the assistants.

I left them after making them a few more presents and they all agreed I was the best church member they had and they would do all they could to ward off any evil spirits which might try and harm me. I promised to call again as I would be often passing and this I did.

I do not think they ever noticed the change I had made in the rubies, if they did they never showed it at any time and were always glad to see me when I called on them. I was always careful to hide the ruby in the locker till I had managed to ship it to little Peru. It arrived all safe and was worth more than I ever imagined.

It was sent to New York for valuation and was also valued at Hatton Garden in London. The American valuation was by far the highest.

The trip to the sea was made without any trouble and as the water was continually rising I was quite sure of being able to run the steamer as far as Sgamba Falls anyway. All my triangulations and workings proved up to the mark.

The Pioneer was a large paddle river boat which could navigate in [illegible] feet of water. As she crossed the bar and came in sight of T——'s place I boarded her.

The skipper was a new and nervous man and he insisted on throwing the [illegible] when I was in charge being [illegible] James Pye, and if he insisted [illegible] being bullheaded I would put him in his cabin and take all responsibilities on myself for my actions.

At this he stood aghast and wanted to parley. I felt insulted and offered him his choice, either the boat was in my full charge or in his, if he wanted to take the boat up himself he could do so.

At this he [illegible] and told me I [illegible] he [illegible] to give in as we had a valuable cargo. I only laughed at him and showed my papers Pilot in full charge. So the old paddles smashed away. She was a splendid boat. I took him in record time to Angola.

He now got quite chummy and as I was always at home with the native chiefs and in fact everybody else he commenced to get confidential, told me of his old woman at home and showed me his daughters' photo.

I found that the river was falling fast on account of the absence of rains in the interior and this I explained to the Captain we were in a land of chance. Chief Isoga on one side and Rengogu on the other both notorious river pirates and that I told him was a place where we could not afford to stick for long with a valuable cargo.

If they saw us stuck they would [illegible] in a minute.

We were [illegible] the sand [illegible] carried 80 pounds of steam. River still falling we grounded fairly in midstream. It was evening just after sundown, we worked her all we could, it was to no avail we were stuck.

I called all my boys with Iwolo my general and we were soon putting the boat in shape to resist an attack which would surely come. The old captain now got up all arms he carried for defense, about 20 old Snyders and netting the stern we did all we could.

Renchoro and Iwolo seemed to think we could lick any attackers and of course I thought so also. A clear case of never say Die. The ship's crew were all working boys and although they would fight their best we relied very little on them.

The engineer a half breed called Davis now coupled up two hose which were to throw scalding water on anyone attempting to board whilst Iwolo and myself [illegible] rifles piled up Manchester goods in a ring and determined to hold our own from aft. The old captain armed with a sixshooter and [illegible] seemed pensive but I soon had him in a good humor by spinning yarns.

I am only [illegible] I am [illegible] school I am considered [illegible] pretty. I met a good looking boy of 18 at school. My parents consented to our friendship.

"We hiked, played tennis and had some good times together. One day he kissed me, unexpectedly. I never allow anyone such familiarities and I became enraged.

"He apologized, but I have not paid much attention to him since, only speaking when we meet. He is very good-looking. All the girls [illegible] him but he [illegible] care.

He told some of my friends that I am the only girl that matters, and if he can't have me, he [illegible] hope. But if he thinks so much of me [illegible] please me?" He claims he couldn't help it.

"He has tried to renew our friendship [illegible]. I like him so much. Do you think I should forgive him? I thank you in advance."

In resenting a stolen kiss you were quite right [illegible] apologized. He [illegible] renew the friendship. You like him and your parents approve of him.

Will you not carry the thing too far, if you refuse to forgive what is after all a natural fault or weakness in a young man? If he promises not to steal any more kisses, do you not think it would be wise and worth-while to forgive your pal and go on with the pleasant friendship? I believe that is what you will decide to do—I hope so!

"IF I ONLY HAD TIME—"

By LUCY LOWELL

THERE is a phrase which we hear often—too often—in these rapidly moving days.

"If I only had a little more time"—

More time. If the day were thirty-six hours long instead of twenty-four. If there were eight days in a week.

What a lot of gorgeous things we could do; how much we could accomplish "if we only had a little more time!"

It makes you wonder, that phrase, what becomes of all the time saved in the last hundred years or so. For it must be admitted much of great value was accomplished before the days of time-saving devices.

The telephone and telegraph and now the radio have speeded up communication. Fast trains, motors, airplanes, have taken the place of the leisurely-moving post-chaise; swift liners bring foreign countries next door.

Hundreds of labor savers have cut housework in half and science has speeded up the work of production.

Yet we complain that we wish more time for work we would like to do.

We spread our days over long, tedious hours and our amusements go far into the night. Few of us have proper rest. Sleep is a thing snatched grudgingly; hardly a one of us devotes an occasional hour to calm, serene meditation—to taking stock of ourselves, our aims and our lives.

The sad part of the thing is that there is reason for our plaint. We don't have enough time!

The trouble isn't with the number of hours in the day or the number of days in the week. It's in our mental attitude.

We do our work under a sense of pressure. This causes confusion, and confusion wastes effort. Mere rushing up and down accomplishes nothing.

And we do one thing while thinking of the dozen and one other things awaiting us. There is nothing more deadly to accomplishment.

Concentration is the secret of strength. To do the thing under your fingers as if it were the only bit of work you ever expected to do, cuts the time necessary for it in half.

And to lay aside all thought of work when it is over, saves for actual activity the energy expended in worry.

Industry recognizes the importance of concentration and of periods of mental rest by giving workers a Saturday half-holiday. And, now, the most successful man in America, Henry Ford, declares that four working days a week is logical, and that workers should have three whole days for relaxation and rest!

He believes four days of concentrated effort are worth six of more diffused labor.

Concentration is what we need, all of us who cry for "a little more time." Not more time, but more concentration.

SCHOOL NEWSPAPER

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

IN a certain progressive high school there is a young writers club. It was organized four years ago by three little girls who were keenly interested in writing. They met at somebody's home once a week and proudly displayed the pages they had covered with their own bits of verse or fiction.

Before long two other little girls wished to join; then another one, and later on others came in—by special permission.

The next year these girls were sophomores and their club had taken on a dignity and prestige. Membership was eagerly accepted and only the pure in heart were invited to join.

Now these girls are seniors, and even the senior boys are glad to be invited to appear on their programs. The majority of the members are juniors and seniors, with a few talented sophomores and two ecstatic freshmen—"the only freshmen who were asked to join the writers' club," they whispered.

The effect that this organization has had upon the English work of the school is remarkable. The subject of English has attained an importance that delights the souls of all the teachers.

In a neighboring town one of the teachers hit upon the plan of having a weekly paper. "School News," it is called. The news items are sent in every week by young reporters from the 15 schools of the city.

The editorials are the written comments of pupils upon various subjects in which the youthful public is concerned. The stories are the masterpieces of boys and girls who aspire to literary fame. The illustrations and cartoons are the work of juvenile artists. The photographs are those of pupils who have distinguished themselves by their own efforts. There also are group pictures portraying the activities of pupils in various lines—the cast of characters in a little play; an orderly squad of a fire drill; a sewing class; a group of first-grade workmen: a lunchroom scene—anything and everything that pertains to the work, play, ambitions or achievements of the children.

There are more than ten thousand homes in that little city, and School News finds its way into most of them every week. Figure the life, prosperity and pursuit of happiness in that town.

Any leader who introduces some feature that spurs youth to greater efforts or causes boys and girls to forget the lure of the world, the flesh and the devil, renders an invaluable service to his community.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE ideal combination for a woman is an old head, a young heart and a baby face.

All these memory courses may be excellent things, but what a woman needs in order to be happy with the average man full of average weaknesses is to cultivate the fine art of FORGETTING.

Next to the people who can tell you how to cure a cold, the largest aggregation of altruists on earth consists of the people who can give you priceless advice on how to rule your husband or how to boss your wife.

In the average man romance and sentiment are as hard to awaken before lunch time as a prima donna.

A man's wife may be the leading lady in his life, but his private secretary is the stage director, scene shifter, prompter, doorkeeper, property man and callboy. And what chance does any woman stand against a combination like that?

• • •

It takes two years for a girl baby to learn to talk—and all the rest of her life for her to learn NOT to!

• •

After 10 or 20 years of marriage a woman no longer expects her husband to remember the date of their wedding anniversary; all she asks is that he will STAY AWAKE long enough to help her and the neighbors celebrate it.

NOTES MARKET HAS BECOME TWO-SIDED

New York, May 14—Two-sided. That describes the latest phase of the stock market. The bulls, however, still appear able to mark up the prices more easily than the bears can force them down. But it is being noted that when support is withdrawn from the favorite speculative issues quotations sink quickly. This is not a reassuring sign.

B. C. Forbes

The yield on favorite stocks is now under the current money rate. Excellent bonds can be purchased to give a better income than the most conspicuous of the boomed stocks. Old-timers interpret this as a sure indication that the marking-up process has been carried too far.

But the fact remains that old-timers have been wrong for months and that the money-makers in Wall st. have been those who either didn't know or didn't care a hoot about past experiences. The wise ones have been laughed at by the new generation of speculators.

And yet—well, the present is the only bull market in all of Wall Street's history which hasn't had an end.

So long as Standard Oil companies behave themselves John D. Rockefeller, Jr., does not interfere. But let any Standard Oil Company be charged with doing anything off color, and its chief executive is sure to find on his desk a note from young John D. asking for a full explanation.

Mr. Rockefeller's attitude toward Col. Stewart, head of Standard Oil of Indiana, is typical of his whole course in relation to the management of so-called Rockefeller properties. As soon as damaging allegations were made, young Rockefeller took vigilant notice. Having become convinced that the head of this particular company did not do exactly as he should have done, Rockefeller has turned against him and demanded his resignation.

Some capitalists are watchdogs of treasuries they are interested in. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., constitutes himself watchdog of the morals of companies he is interested in.

Norman B. Black, influential newspaper publisher of North Dakota, says that for the first time in his long experience soil conditions in that State are perfect. At least 85 per cent of the wheat was in the ground a month earlier than usual. They are looking forward to a wonderful crop.

"Agricultural relief," remarked Mr. Black during a visit to New York, "must come mainly from farmers' own organizations rather than from the Government."

North Dakota is now recovering from the afflictions so recklessly imposed by the Non-Partisan League.

One of the ablest oil leaders in America gives me this "low-down" on the situation:

"The general oil situation throughout the country is somewhat improved, which, as you know, is largely the result of controlled overproduction. Personally, I cannot see in the immediate future the time when the consumption will be equal to the potential production, but as against this, amity in the industry is making itself distinctly felt and I look for greater co-operative and constructive effort within the industry during the coming year than we have ever had before."

A. P. Fant, industrial director of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, supplied this column with these interesting facts.

"Agriculture is in better condition than in years. With the exception of the lumber industry, the industrial conditions of this section are excellent. There are numerous incidents of plants running twenty-four hours a day. Trade, money and the credit conditions are excellent. Postal receipts show the largest per cent of gain of the entire country."

as the recipient of this license.

Nor would antiquated systems of sanitation be permitted to flourish. Clean, bright premises with ample facilities for the sterilization of utensils and equipment and a wholesome product would be the end and aim of the licensing authorities.

The high type of candy manufacturer should welcome with a grateful relief the introduction of the licensing system. It would mean to him the wiping out of a dangerous competitor. The danger of the competition is not that he would steal away the high grade man's trade for himself. No, it is because his undesirability both as to person and to place and manner of business is a reflection on the whole trade.

The high grade candy man should and does welcome inspection; it is the death blow to the insanitary purveyor. To neither is the question of fee a paramount item.

nation of "two-car families."

With only 25,000,000 cars in use and only 5,000,000 new cars a year, each car would have to run five years.

High spirited Americans, making and spending rapidly, could not stand that slow pace. As well expect American women to let a hat last five years.

How little the Chinese worried about the war. How little our so-called civilization frets as it reads: "Waves of Chinese mowed down by Japanese machine guns," or, "Japanese rained shells two days on Chinese before expelling them from Tsinan."

Poor old Job's prosperity depended on the numbers of camels, sheep and asses he owned.

Russian wealth varied with the number of horses and serfs. Our wealth varies with the amount of electric power used.

Japan will establish a sort of Asiatic Monroe Doctrine and run it. Also she will get what she wants. One thing she wants is no communism, bolshevism or other anti-capitalistic frenzy in China. And Europe's great nations that want money from Chinese trade will say:

"Heaven bless you, Japan, go ahead."

What about the League of Nations? That is supposed to prevent only wars that the big leaguers don't want.

When you read that last month used 1 per cent more power than the month before and 2.2 per cent more than April, 1927, you know that the country is going ahead.

The South, that once depended on slave power, now pushes ahead with electricity and steam for slaves. That is better and

TO BROADCAST

Dolores Casoinelli, former motion picture actress, will sing Spanish arias tonight in the General Motors broadcast. After appearing in 32 pictures she turned to the concert stage, making her debut in Baltimore in May of 1925. She is a native of Chicago and was trained by Fucito, who was Caruso's instructor. She is a soprano.

Radio Dialog

THE CITY OF BOSTON, the Commonwealth, and the Boston airport were hosts today to the youngsters who make up the Gold Spot Pals group, heard each week in chain hook-ups. The delegation had a busy program under the escort of Big Brother Bob Emery, calling upon officials of the city and State' governments, Superintendent Crowley, and visiting sites of historic interest. Theoretically, the group is here to absorb atmosphere for one of their radio skits. They are scheduled to participate in the Big Brother broadcast tonight through WEEI, with WTAG of Worcester tied in.

Moon Magic

WBZ is picking up a few of the interesting Blue Chain "sustaining" programs which it has heretofore neglected in favor of local presentations. Tonight we have the Riverside hour and Moon Magic from New York. Perhaps some time a way will be found to pick up the Slumber music every night. The late evening hours are sadly lacking in restful programs of music. Practically all that can be picked up from the locals is dance music, some bad, some fair, and some a little better, but none of it very alluring for listeners in the fussy forties.

Cadets Band

PATRIOTIC band music by the First Corps Cadets' Band, under the direction of John B. Fielding, will inaugurate a new series of flag broadcasts beginning tonight from WEEI. These programs will be heard from 6 to 6:35 o'clock, and will depict the history of the American flag, with musical interpretation.

Flute Solos

HENRIK DE VREES, flutist, will be heard in the program by Roxy and His Gang through WBZ and the Blue Network at 7:30.

De Vrees was born in Holland, and studied at the Conservatory of Amsterdam. After finishing there, he spent three years as first flutist in the Dutch Royal Opera House, later going to Berlin. Three years later De Vrees became first flutist at the Capitol Theater, until the Roxy Theater was built, to which he was transferred.

Moon Maid

"THE SWAN," by Edward Grieg, will be sung by Paula Hemminghaus, contralto, the Maid of the Moon, during the "Moon Magic" program broadcast through WBZ and the NBC Blue Network at 10 o'clock. Other songs by the Maid of the Moon will be "Sylvelin," by Sinding, and "A Picture," by Curran. The di Stefano Trio will play "Menuet oPmpadour," by Wachs; "Menuet Pompadour," by Wachs; Love to You," by Fletcher, and a minuet from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman."

Dance Group Returns

THE CAPTIVATORS return to the air tonight at 9:30 after a short absence. This popular orchestra will be heard in one of their typical programs through WNAC and the Columbia system.

Popular Tunes

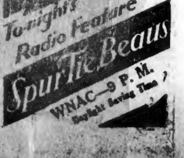
AUF WIEDERSEHEN, by Robbins, will be played by the Trail Blazers, an instrumental group, during the Riverside Hour to be broadcast through the Blue Chain at 9 o'clock. Other numbers include "The Spirit of Progress March," Herold's "Zampa" overture; Michaelis' "Turkish Patrol"; "The Jolly Airman," by Carver; "The March of the Tin Soldiers," by Pierne, and "I Bersaglieri," by Boccalari. A male quartet will sing "In the Land of Make Believe" and "Wobbly Walk."

Movie Soprano

MEXICAN music will be presented in the General Motors Family Party this evening. The soloists will be George Cehanovsky, baritone of the Metropolitan, and Dolores Cassinelli, concert soprano. Three popular groups will supply instrumental music—a concert orchestra under direction of Roderic Graham, Joe Green's novelty orchestra and Edwin Franko Goldman's "symphony" band.

FAVORABLE railroad merger decision, say bull traders, will be followed by a big bull demonstration in rails.

ALL outstanding and unmatured Pennsylvania Railroad 6 per cent equipment trust certificates will be redeemed July 15, at premium of 2 per cent with accrued dividends.



STAGE AND SCREEN

STAGE COMEDY FILM AT THE OLYMPIA

A hilarious farce comedy of backstage life, frantic weeks of life in theatrical boarding houses and hectic promoting of free meals is now on view at the Washington St. Olympia. The picture is "Lady Be Good," based on the musical comedy of that name. Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall in the featured roles romp through delightful comedy in the fetching manner that has made them such highly popular players, and a strong support-cast lends itself commendably.

Jack Mulhall

Mulhall plays the role of a vaudeville magician, with two ambitions in life. One is to play engagement at the Palace Theater in New York—the dream of every vaudeville performer, however lowly—and the other is to marry his assistant, Miss Mackaill.

Amusing as are the scenes backstage in the theater, the real fun begins when the magician and his assistant are out of work and must convince the suspicious landlady of a theatrical boarding house that they are rolling in wealth. The supporting cast includes such capable performers as Dot Farley, James Finlayson, Nita Martan, John Millan and others.

On the stage there are five acts headed by Gladys Joyce and girls. Miss Joyce is one of England's youngest concert pianists, and she presents a lively melange of song, dance and music.

WAR ACE FILM AT SCOLLAY

"The Legion of the Condemned," a cinematic follow-up on "Wings," is now playing at the Scollay Sq. Olympia. In it, Fay Wray and Gary Cooper play pair of young lovers whose exploits are intended to sweeten the scenes of grim warfare. As a result of the heart throbs with which these personable young people have endowed "The Legion," they are both scheduled to make a few more features of the same stripe for Paramount. The current picture at the Scollay devotes its war scenes to the famous Lafayette Escadrille. The corps is pictured as a group of young men who seek a glorious death because life had become unbearable to them. This concept of the Escadrille is patiently a movie one.

Fay Wray

Rowdy Roxie

PHYLLIS HAVER

Plays Roxie Hart, the blue-eyed little cheat who gets away with murder in "Chicago," now a movie at the Modern and Beacon.

'CHICAGO' AT TWIN HOUSES

"Chicago," the screen version of Maurice Watkins' stage success of the same name, is the feature picture at the Modern and Beacon Theaters this week and next. Phyllis Haver has the star role as Roxie Hart, and Victor Varconi is featured opposite her.

The story deals with a vixen wife who, to gratify her wild desires, deceives her husband. When her "angel daddy" seeks to rid himself of the shackles with which she has enslaved him she deliberately murders him.

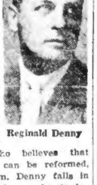
Although her husband is aware of her infidelities, his love for her prompts him to do all in his power to save her from the chair, and when a rascally criminal lawyer, portrayed by Robert Edeson, demands an excessive fee he commits burglary.

Roxie Hart is heralded by the press as "the beautiful jazz slayer," and she revels in the notoriety which ultimately results in her acquittal. Then her husband casts her off and she finds herself an outcast, alone and forgotten.

The companion picture, "Casey Jones," and featuring Ralph Lewis, is a Western railroad story, written around the old-time song of the same name. Despite desperate efforts of bandits to hold the train up, the engineer, Casey Jones, brings a large shipment of gold safely to its destination.

DENNY SCORES IN CROOK FILM AT BOSTON

"Good Morning, Judge," now at the Keith-Albee Boston, is a typical Reginald Denny vehicle made by Universal; it has rapid action, excellent comedy and a pleasing romantic angle.



Reginald Denny

This time the star appears as a scion of wealth who can't pay his fine when brought before judge, after participating as an innocent bystander in a fight. Someone had stolen his wallet.

A lovely mission worker who believes that hardened crooks can be reformed, advances the sum. Denny falls in love with her and in order to become an inmate of her mission, confesses to a long list of crimes. Later he saves her from some of the criminals whom she thought she had reformed. She finally learns his real identity, but this doesn't halt their romance.

"Good Morning, Judge," is the best picture the star has made. William A. Seiter, who has wielded the megaphone on most of Denny's hits, directed it.

Mary Nolan plays opposite Denny and Dorothy Gulliver, gorgeous heroine of the "Collegians," has a prominent role. The hundreds of laughs are partly due to Otis Harlan. In the role of an unshaven bum, whose specialty is crashing the gates at prize fights, Harlan demonstrates a superb skill at comedy. Denny, by himself, however, provided enough funny scenes for an ordinary picture.

Others of the supporting cast were also outstanding. The company includes William Davidson, William Worthington, Bull Montana, Sailor Sharkey and Charles Coleman.

An entertaining vaudeville completes the show.

De Mille Has Real Job in 'Craig's Wife'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, May 14—'Tis no simple assignment William de Mille has been handed in "Craig's Wife," Pulitzer prize play. Only a director of his skill could manage to build enough interest around the lady whose chief diversion in life is in making other people miserable.

Chrystal Hearne was superb on the stage and there is every reason to believe that Irene Rich will give an adequate characterization on the screen. Miss Rich is a talented actress whose ability has only been hampered when she has had unworthy vehicles.

The husband, long suffering, kindly and totally unable to fathom his wife's pettiness will be played by Warner Baxter, also a player who knows his screen. Clara Beranger who prepared the scenario of "Ice Bound," also a Pulitzer prize play and for Lulu Bett, another drama dependant upon a woman's deft characterization, has written the screen adaptation of "Craig's Wife."

THE exotic German actress, Lya De Putti will wear no more blonde wigs. Harry Cohn doesn't see her as a blonde ingenue. He prefers her own dark tresses and the type of character which she played with success in Germany. I think he is right. Why change the leopard's spots?

The first story chosen for Miss De Putti bears out this idea. It is called "The Scarlet Virgin," or the "Scarlet Woman," and it was written by Bess Meredyth.

Miss Meredyth, who is one of Hollywood's highest paid scenario writers, has already completed the story, which goes into production very shortly.

Universal has inspirations to make Nathalie Kingston the Pearl White of the screen. Not since Miss White took herself and her blonde wig to Paris and settled down to life in the French capital have there been a successor. It takes courage to do these thrillers. You'd think so if you could read what Nathalie has to do in "Tarzan, the Mighty," her first Universal serial.

Al Ferguson, Frank Merrill and [illegible] masculine aid. Jack Nelson is directing.

FOREIGN etiquette, foreign customs, and foreign ideals should not be treated lightly, Jesse L. Lasky believes. In order to forestall any criticism he has placed George Kates, Harvard and Oxford graduate and globe-trotter in charge of foreign scenes.

If Kates says that Clara Bow or Emil Jannings or Evelyn Brent or any of the other players do a certain thing in a certain way, if its a foreign picture, Kates' word goes. Lasky is confident that it is only a question of time before all the foreign countries will send diplomats to Hollywood to confer with the film producers on the proper way to picture their individual country. Certainly plenty has been said about the influence of America on the cities of the world.

THE Hollywood intelligencia and elite will have a chance to hear Charlie Chaplin act as interpreter next Friday and Saturday nights at the Windsor Square theater in Los Angeles. Charlie's Japanese actors, proteges whom he has sponsored so heartily, are to give two performances of "Ken-Geki," a Japanese sword play. 'It was Sid Gruman's noble idea that the addition of Charlie Chaplin to the cast would help greatly. Certainly with Sid and Charlie, Joseph Schenck, Samuel Goldwyn and Cecil de Mille as producers of this play, the theater ought to be sold out both nights.

THE friends of Kenneth Harlan say he made a great impression when he stood up in court and denied the charges that had been hurled at him by a man who is suing his wife for divorce. The film people are always the target for accusations of this nature, but not many of them have the courage to come out and fight.

Kenneth opened last night at Long Beach on a sketch called "Suicide." 'Tis said that he was given a great ovation. People love to have their heroes unafraid. Kenneth and Marie Provost are seen together often these days. Neither deny a permanent reconciliation may be effected.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Uncle Sam, Employer

Ought to Be a Model

United States Senator Porter H. Dale, urging upon the Senate a bill in amendment of the Act for the Retirement of Employes in the Classified Civil Service, was asked what it will "cost the Government."

And the reply of the Senator from Vermont was:

"I do not know how much the bill will cost; but I will say to the Senator that it does not make any difference what it costs. if this Government cannot give these men who have worked 30 years, performed hard labor for the Government, annual retirement pay of $800 on the average, when THEY pay 3½ per cent and the Government pays only 1 per cent, the Government had better go out of business."

PASSED by the Senate, the pension bill is now in the House of Representatives. It ought to be enacted into law and AT THIS SESSION.

In its civil service the Government employs 500,000 workers. The pension provided for in existing law can be secured only after 30 years of continuous service, but not until the age of 62 in the case of railway mail clerks and others in hazardous work; 65 in the case of letter carriers, mechanics, laborers and postal clerks, and 70 in the case of departmental workers.

It is now proposed to make the pension available to any civil servant who, having served for 30 years, has reached the age of 60.

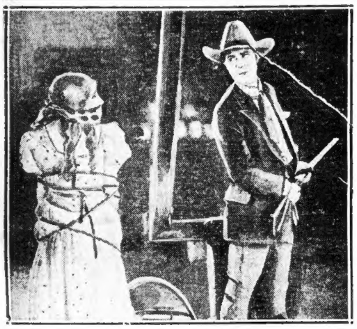
Some, we may expect, will see "paternalism" in the plan and cry out in something very much like anguish. To these objectors old-age pensions are paternalistic, too, while land grants, subsidies of one sort and another and VERY special favors in the way of tariff protection are so many forms of self-help.

The great majority, who see the doors of office, shop and factory closing in the care-worn faces of men of 65 and 55—in some cases, 45, even—will hold with the Senator from Vermont that if the Government cannot do for its workers what is contemplated by the Dale-Lehlbach bills the Government had "better go out of business."

The proposal is just. It would reward fidelity. Uncle Sam should be a model for other employers.

Anthony Asquith's Picture

"Shooting Stars" That SHOOT



THE LADY PLANNED HER HUSBAND'S DEATH

Anthony Asquith, able young man whose father was Prime Minister of Great Britain, is devoting earnest thought and Oxford education to the writing of moving picture plays.

Some friends tell him that writing scenarios is too much like blowing bubbles, devoting effort to work that can't last.

Young Mr. Asquith does not agree with them, and his first picture is called "Shooting Stars."

In the opinion of those that know the moving picture business, Mr. Asquith has talent and a future.

Millions of young Americans probably have thought about the moving picture-scenario-short-road-to-wealth, and will be interested in Mr. Asquith's "Shooting Stars" idea.

It shows moving picture life OFF and ON "the lot," moving PICTURE life and REAL life.

In the picture a young lady is in love with a tall, handsome man, and, of course, only laughs at the undersized comedian. But in the real life she is really in love with the comedian, who has brains, and doesn't think so much about the tall, handsome man.

In fact, the lady you see here in this picture decided to get rid of the tall, handsome man, and planned it as follows:

In the film she is the heroine, bound as you see. The handsome man, her lover, comes to rescue her. The man in this picture shoots at him, with blank cartridges, of course, and the handsome man comes in smiling.

The heroine, in real love with the handsome man, gets a real cartridge, substitutes it for one of the blank cartridges used in her "scene." Her handsome husband knocks at the door, and meanwhile she has changed her mind about shooting him.

But, gagged and bound, she cannot warn others that she has put a real cartridge in the gun. She struggles and writhes to the delight of her director. The handsome man enters, the gun is fired, but fortunately it is the blank cartridge that is fired, the other one remains unused.

So much for that.

SOME THOUGHTS AT A CHRISTENING

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AN old man of some 70 years being called upon to make some remarks at a christening responded as follows:

We have gathered here today to consecrate this child by baptism to the service of God, which means the service of humanity.

We hail this child as one of the coming generation, one of those who are to take up the torch of progress which is beginning to totter in older hands. Age is creeping upon us all, but, thank God, youth is springing up all about us to take up the problems we have left unfinished.

We wish for this child, therefore, and for all children, a sounder body than our own, a stronger mind and a purer soul.

Let him be vigorous and strong, for no one can help the weak and inefficient except those who have stores of strength in themselves!

Let his mind be furnished with sound knowledge and the training of a deep wisdom! A man's value to the world is coming more and more to mean the value of his mind.

May he have quick hands and strong, but above all may they be directed by a straight-thinking and active brain!

But most of all we wish for him and for all his fellows that cleanness of soul and that highness of ideals that shall equip him nobly to bear his part in the drama of life.

We who are older look back with regret upon much that we have done. May he learn from our experience and profit by our mistakes!

What does it mean to us to wish this young voyager success as he is getting under way for his life? May he successfully live out all storms! May his ship staunchly buffet the waves and may at last he reach port crowned with success!

We ourselves have lived in a wonderful age. Some of us have seen the rise of the telephone, the radio and the airplane. What greater wonders shall he not see! We envy the part that he shall play in his generation.

The interesting thing about this earth is not that men die, but that life continues. Go tell it to the stars about us that on this planet the earth greens every spring and flowers bloom anew, and new and lusty youth takes up the program of life where their elders lay it down.

Go, therefore, O child of promise, to greet better days!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

NEED a wife tell? Is she a liar and a cheat if she does not reveal to her husband the secrets of her past?

"She is," says immemorial tradition. "A woman belongs to her man. Her moral record is as much his concern as her physical condition. It determines her value as his wife. Therefore, she has no right to conceal from him any episode in her past."

Old Man Stonehatchet, dragging his wives home by the hair, or swapping them in open market, started that tradition and, although nose rings and brandings have long been out of fashion, society still accepts it. But now a judge has arisen—a male judge, at that—who says that this is all wrong.

"No, you can't divorce her," said Judge Leon R. Yankwich of Los Angeles to William P. Feitzke, when the irate gentleman haled his wife into court and accused her of concealing certain old love affairs.

"Her past is her concern, not yours, and you can't hold it against her. You haven't been cheated because there's no law, legal or spiritual, which compels a woman to confess her past to a man. Marriage is a new beginning for her as well as for you and if she's a good wife now, that's all that matters."

Which is, perhaps the biggest piece of news for women that has happened in this 20th century.

A woman sat in my office the other day. She was a weary, middle-aged woman with a kind, homely face and work roughened hands. Twenty-five years ago there may have been a fresh prettiness in her soft flesh and pale, shallow eyes, but life and some gnawing pain had faded and drained her. She was crying, not violently, but as if an old wound bled slowly.

"It was all right until he found out," she said hopelessly. "I didn't dare tell him when we were married. It was just that one winter when I worked in the city and it was all over for m I knew I was really a good girl in my heart, like he thought I was, but I was sure he wouldn't believe it if I told him.

"And I was so in love with him—so, I didn't tell him. And then, after we'd had three children and were getting a good start n' I'd almost forgotten it all, his sister found out and told him. She'd always had a grudge against me for cutting her out with a fellow she had once. And he's never been the same to me since."

"But what did he do? Did he try to leave you?"

"No, he stayed all right. But he's always acted ever since as if I'd cheated him. Said he couldn't ever trust me again. I've asked and asked him to forgive me, and he does. But every time he makes me feel I ain't fit to wipe his feet on. It's been going on 20 years now. Sometimes it seems as if I couldn't stand it another day."

Twenty years of bitter judging, of shameful humiliation. That is the story of many a woman's life. That man did not think that he was wantonly cruel. He felt that he was acting within his rights and the wife agreed with him. She too, felt that she had cheated him and that her punishment was just. And few of us have the wisdom or the courage to challenge that attitude.

A woman's past does not belong to the man she marries. It is part of her private development and, in spite of its vulgarity or foolishnes, it may have been a very valuable past.

A man may be wiser, stronger and more reliable because he has made a fool of himself in the past, and so may a woman. They should both be judged by their characters as they stand and not by the events which have gone to the making of those characters.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 14—Diary of a modern Pepys: At my typewriter came a fellow I know but slightly to look over my shoulder. When I removed a sheet he picked it up, inquiring, "Do you mind?" and began to read. When I replied I did very much, he seemed nettled.

So through the town and saw among others afoot Count Max de Polignac, Al Woods, Harry Acton and Theodore, the head waiter. And it appeared in several blocks in the Forties that every other place was an unlicensed pub, so many staggering from this door and that is though befuddled.

In the evening to dinner with Peggy Hoyt and Aubrey Eads and later to the pier to see a barque sail at midnight, and with my wife stopped in to see Henry L. Doherty at his roof bungalow, but no one home. Then walked through Battery Park, very beautiful in the moonlight.

OF all foreigners arriving in New York, those who most readily learn English are the Russians. They acquire a working knowledge in a few weeks and several months later speak it fluently. Russians, being adept linguists, are able to pick up any language and in a short time make it hum. They are the only people to speak Chinese and Japanese successfully. Their own language is so complicated, all others are comparatively a snap.

WITHIN the year, the sweep of Modernist furniture has confounded critics. The hold it has taken here and abroad has been astonishing. The newest homes and the newest offices are now equipped in this tyle. Old furniture is going where many think it should have gone long ago—to the scrap heap. The world no longer believes art must be a century old to be worthwhile.

Perhaps the greatest impetus was given to the movement with the launching of the liner Ile de France, which is Modernistic throughout. The modern hoop-la in decoration has a sparkling appeal, a Venetian luster, and what is highly important there is more comfort in the furnishings.

The most striking atelier in New York is in the new manner. The front is of solid glass, both clear and frosted, and the furniture is metal painted silver and pink with walls of radiant mirrors. The surface indications are that of a shiny silk hat.

The Modernistic idea is thoroughly revolutionary and bears no resemblance to another period. The idea came like the radio—all of a sudden. The lighting is indirect, usually hidden in bowls and vases and can be changed from a soft glow to a blinding dazzle. Department stores now exhibit Modernistic furniture. It is machine made beauty in a machine age and rings the bell.

A RICH young bachelor has a Park ave. apartment in the Modernistic mode throughout. Floors are carpeted a creamy gray. Not a lighting ornament is visible yet the apartment can be flooded to ball room gaiety or toned down to a boudoir hue. The walls of one room—he calls it the Gilda Gray—are of pressed split straw of various colorings and designed as waving palm trees. The walls of another are of egg shells dipped into some shiny solution giving it an odd crackly surface. The beds have swirling plumelike head boards, purple, green and brilliant red. Tables have mirror tops that flash and sparkle. The chairs are covered with pigskin, deep and comfortable, which is more than can be said of the ram-roddish early American or Louis XV. The entire effect blends nicely with the modern idea of architecture, music, dress and other thus-and-sos.

AN average of five apparently respectable and thoroughly domesticated husbands walk from the family fireside every week in New York and are rarely seen again. Marry and see the world!

A FRENCHMAN observes New York women know only how to make their feet and legs look neat and above the knees they are a sight. In other words—keep the engine going, Parkins, for a quick getaway—beauty is only knee deep.

Meanwhile, the lady's comic actor-lover is doing his stuff, in another part of the same studio.

He is pursued by a jealous, fat husband, runs up the staircase, finally jumps and clings to a chandelier. The same gun is used, there is only one bullet left in it, the one with which the lady was to kill the handsome husband.

An actor takes the gun, fires the real cartridge, kills the comic actor-lover, who drops dead from the chandelier. And that settles THAT love affair.

The lady drifts DOWN AND DOWN, as usually happens when she takes the wrong turn, and tries to have her husband shot.

The tall, handsome husband goes UP AND UP, while she is a forlorn movie "extra," getting a poor job now and again. He becomes a great producer, which in Hollywood is equivalent to saying that he becomes a combination of Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon Bonaparte and Ormuzd.

Working hard, his beautiful face turned up to the spotlight, he calls for some ordinary woman to walk across in front of the camera. The poor wife of former days, now forgotten, asks timidly, "Will I do?" She does the walk, and then, unrecognized by him, walks out of the picture and out of his life forever—but probably doesn't forget to collect the six dollars from Mr. Zukor, or Mr. Lasky, or Mr. L. B. Mayer, or whoever it happens to be.

It is a good picture; but it's made in Great Britain, and for some peculiar reason pictures made in Great Britain do not seem to lure here, as pictures made here succeed in Great Britain.

However, you would like young Mr. Asquith's picture if you saw it, and enjoy the moral lesson, which is this:

DO NOT fall in love with a comic actor, when you have a perfectly good, handsome husband of your own—or even if you HAVEN'T got one.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

LITTLE my Love and I ask of Earth's store,
Only a house for two,
Robins that carol around the door,
Roses for winds to woo,

Only the dreams love has cherished long,
Joy of a daily task,
Laughter and starlight and artless song,
Simple, the things we ask.

Yet, should the Hand that does all things well
Blossom and song deny,
Life will be bliss, while we two may dwell
Together, my love and I.
